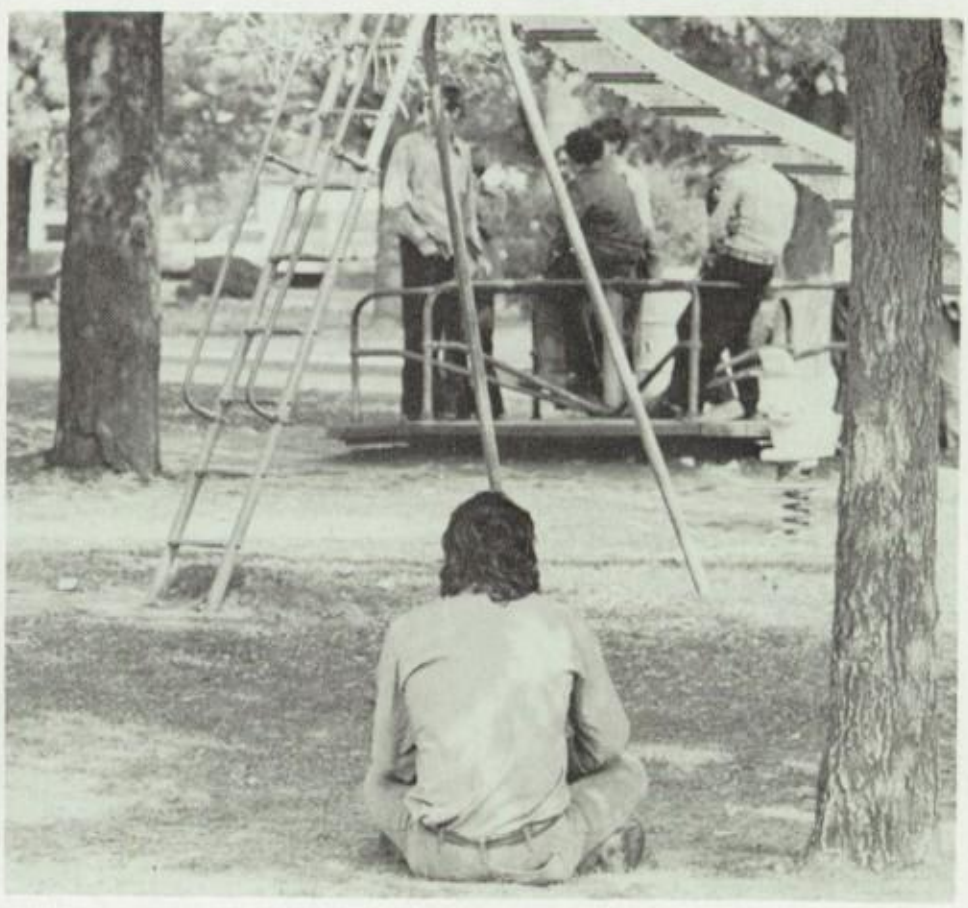
Conclusion 193

Another day of my life is starting to unfold.

6:30—To my own astonishment, I have awakened. Why am I up before the sun? I summon all of my super-human resources and drag myself from the warmth and comfortability of slumber into the hustle-bustle arena of life. Another microscopic phase of my existence has begun.



Newsmen inform me about my wide world.

7:25—after struggling to clothe myself and downing whatever nourishment I have time for, I embark for my destination. Enroute, the radio blares each morning's headline: Mansfield favors Nixon's impeachment; "Exorcist" draws huge crowds at Holiday Theater; gas squeeze gets tighter; candidates announce plans for fall election.

As I soak all this information in, I notice the world around me. The trees look especially beautiful this morning, and the early-rising birds capture their families' breakfasts. But, eventually, my destination looms ahead—school.

I pull into my parking space, gather my thoughts, stroll forward to the doors and enter the halls of education.

Poll shows student opinion

A wide variety of opinions from the students was revealed in a poll taken during the second semester.

As expected, many students will be college-bound after departing from here, and 68 percent of those polled said they plan to further their education upon completion of high school.

After-school jobs became routine for students, with 53 percent holding down jobs while attending schools.

Questions 3 and 4 proved very interesting in the wake of Watergate and much deceit in the nation's capital. Students often commented about effects of the scandal, and a plurality of those who answered the poll considered themselves Republicans.

Students were split on their predictions of Mr. Nixon's fate with 42 percent believing he should be impeached or resign, and 42 percent feeling that he should remain in office.

Spirit grows, Laura reigns, team wins

As though the Almighty had meant it no other way, the football team squeaked by arch-rival Harding in a 7-6 overtime to end Homecoming week with an exciting victory.

And what a spirited week it was. On Monday each girl was issued a paper Bulldog. If she spoke to any boy, she was required to forfeit the Bulldog to him. At the end of the day, the boy with the most Bulldogs won $5. Another day was designated to show spirit by decorating lockers, one for decorating clothes and shows and one for wearing buttons—as many as possible.

Thursday evening the traditional bonfire was lighted and followed by a pep rally. Wet weather failed to dampen school spirit or the fire.

More floats and decorations than ever before were unveiled at the parade on Friday. Top honors went to the Class of '74 for best float and to OEA for best-decorated car.

However, the excitement had just begun. Even after a scoreless first half, neither squad showed much sign of life after the intermission. Tied at zero at the end of regulation play, an overtime was called. Hawks took the ball and scored on three plays from the ten, but Phil Velez scored on the Bulldogs' first play. Velez booted the winning extra point for New Haven.

Both squads anxiously look on as Harding's offense attempts to move the ball downfield. The Bulldog defense was up to the task, however, as it shut out the Hawks until the overtime.

Injuries, Harding hurt gridders

Despite a season capped full of injuries, the Bulldogs secured their second straight winning record as they mounted a 5-4 mark. At times during the season they were without five starting members, all injured, including seniors Charlie Stratton and John Chovan, who both missed most of the season with hurt knees.

Losing much experience to a new Harding team, New Haven began its 1974 season on what looked to be a sour note, by losing two of its first three contests. Beginning with the Concordia game, the Bulldogs displayed a rigid defense and ran off four straight victories, giving up only six points in the process.

This string included three shutouts and an overtime win over Harding, 7-6. Senior Rock Hughes led defense as he accounted for 25 unassisted tackles and 55 assists.

Offensively the Bulldogs were led by a strong rushing team comprised of Phil Velez (778 yards) and Steve Gottfried (506 yards), as they amassed over 1200 yards.

The winning streak was broken in the Columbia City game as dreams of a conference championship were stifled. Columbia City won 39-21, and New Haven finished eighth in NEIAC, after losing to Angola in conference playoffs.

Velez, Hughes, make All-State

Climaxing the year, seniors Phil Velez and Rock Hughes were named with honorable mention to All-State team. Hughes was cited for offense and defense, and Velez for offense.

Hughes also made the starting All-NEIAC offensive and defensive teams, while senior Denny Metzger was named to its defensive squad.

Hughes led the team in tackles with 25, and assisted 55 others. Velez led in rushing with 778 yards and a five-yard average.

Harriers succeed, record ten victories

Ending the season 10-8, the varsity cross country team turned in a respectable performance for 1973. In post-season competition the squad placed fifth in the NEIAC meet, and dropped to fourteenth in sectionals.

Coach Carl Sipe's team was led by senior Joe Tamm, who was elected captain and most valuable player. Tamm split honors of being "number one" with senior Bobby Knuckles, and each harrier had the honor for five meets.

Senior Rich Stoffer turned in strong performances, and the three, along with senior Rich Kelty and sophomore Chris Laurent, were awarded letters for their efforts. Sophomore Roy Brock was voted as most-improved harrier.

Student assemblies offer fun, knowledge

Provided with quite a few programs to relieve the pressures of the school day, students had the opportunity to be entertained while, at the same time, picking up some valuable knowledge.

Chuck Bisset brought his music to New Haven. He had previously appeared on several shows, including 'Sonny and Cher'. Although straying away from drug-oriented songs, his over-all point was to encourage the disuse of drugs.

Greg Maxwell, of Indiana-Purdue, presented a demonstration of atomic energy. He pointed out that the age of atomic energy is now, and he wanted to make sure students understood its capabilities.

After being passed over last fall, Indiana & Michigan sponsored 'The History of Rock-Part 2', narrated by Tech Murdock. He traced rock all the way back to its beginnings, and had filmed highlights of the Monterey Pop Festival.

As always, there were numerous pep sessions on the school agenda. Countless cheers and ingenious skits helped students express Bulldog Power.

"Come Blow Your Horn" presented to public

March 8 and 9 saw the presentation of the Neil Simon comedy "Come Blow Your Horn," by New Haven's Masque and Gavel.

With a cast of only seven, the play centered around two brothers—Alan Baker, a playboy, and his younger counterpart, Buddy. The elder brother had Buddy move into his apartment as a roommate. Three weeks later, the situation had been reversed, and the younger Buddy had become the swinger.

Living in his New York City apartment, Alan was portrayed by Jim Witte, with Larry Knepp as Buddy. The parents were played by Liane Isenbarger and Mike Lynch. Jodi Taylor and Darla Backofen added spice to the production as Alan's girlfriends, with the latter of the two becoming his wife-to-be. Janice Mellon made an appearance in the final act as a visitor.

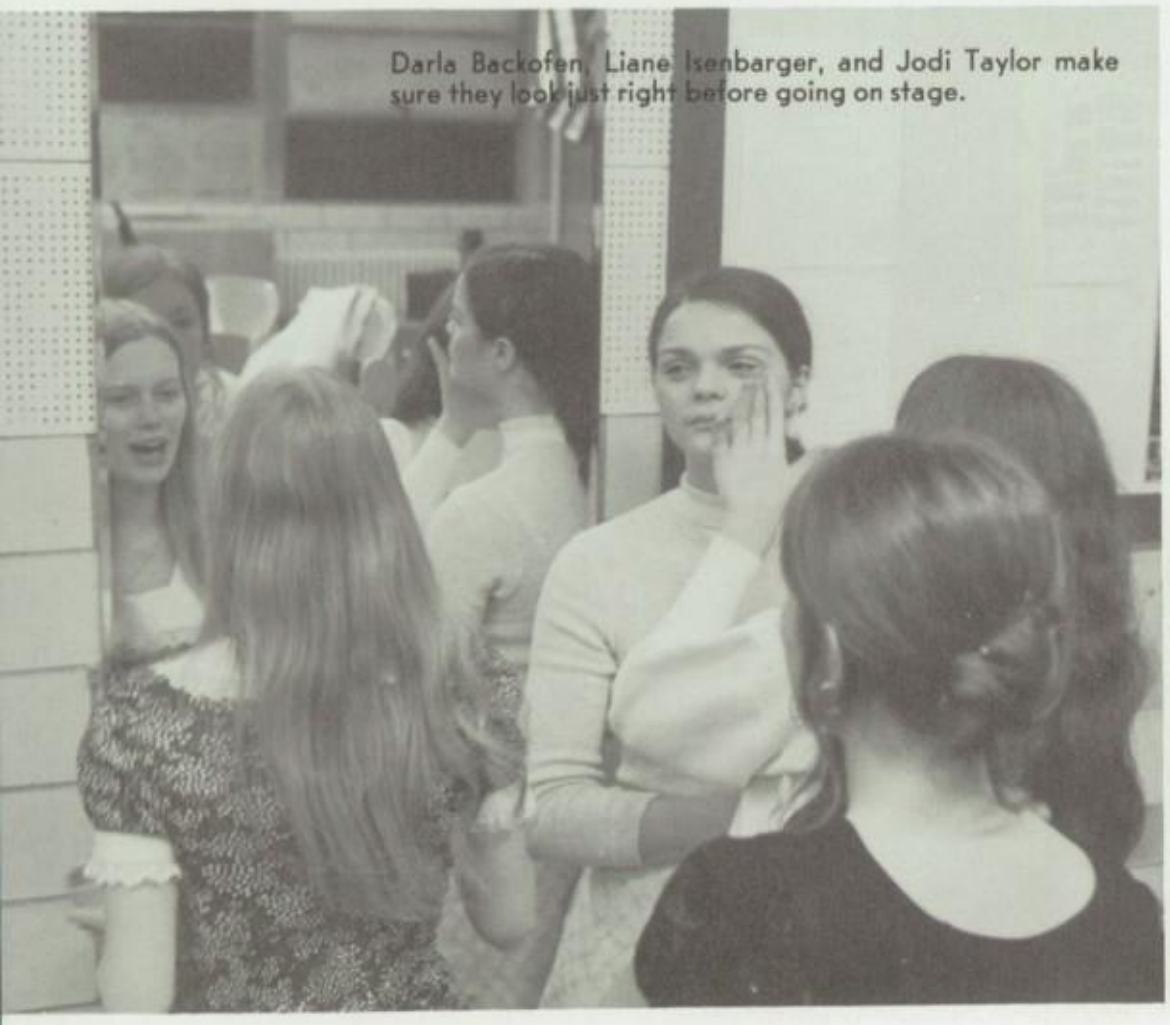
Under the direction of Mr. Francis May, head of M & G, the play was the victim of some technical difficulties, but some fine performances helped make the effort successful.

Mrs. Baker, portrayed by Liane Isenbarger, lets loose in tearful emotion, as Alan watches in wonder.

Alan (Jim Witte) nonchalantly makes his point to a skeptical Connie (Jodi Taylor).

Mr. Baker makes his feelings known as Jodi "Connie" Taylor, Mrs. Baker, Buddy, and Alan look on.

Buddy (Larry Knepp) tries to explain his predicament to his weeping mother.



Darla Backofen, Liane Isenbarger, and Jodi Taylor make sure they look just right before going on stage.

Buddy (Larry Knepp) and Peggy Evans (Darla Backofen) enjoy a drink together.

Coach Jerry Mitchel barks out words of strategy while the team watches.

Inexperienced squad finishes dismal year

Bulldog fans had little to cheer about as their team struggled through a gloomy 5-16 season. Hindered by inexperience the purple and gold averaged 52 points per contest while giving up close to 59 points a game.

Managing to capture two of their first three efforts the Bulldogs lost four consecutive games before upsetting Woodlan. A seven game-losing-streak followed a victory over Snider as the varsity squad went winless until it defeated Leo 55-54 in overtime.

Sectional time arrived with New Haven drawing Elmhurst, who had defeated the Bulldogs by 24 points in a previous contest. The roundballers' first game proved to be their last, although it was close throughout the contest.

Elmhurst exhibited its supremacy in the final frame to spoil the hopes of New Haven fans and the game ended with the Bulldogs on the short end of a 62-53 score.

Leading in season scoring was junior Dan Meyer, who pumped in 236 points while hitting 42 percent from the field.

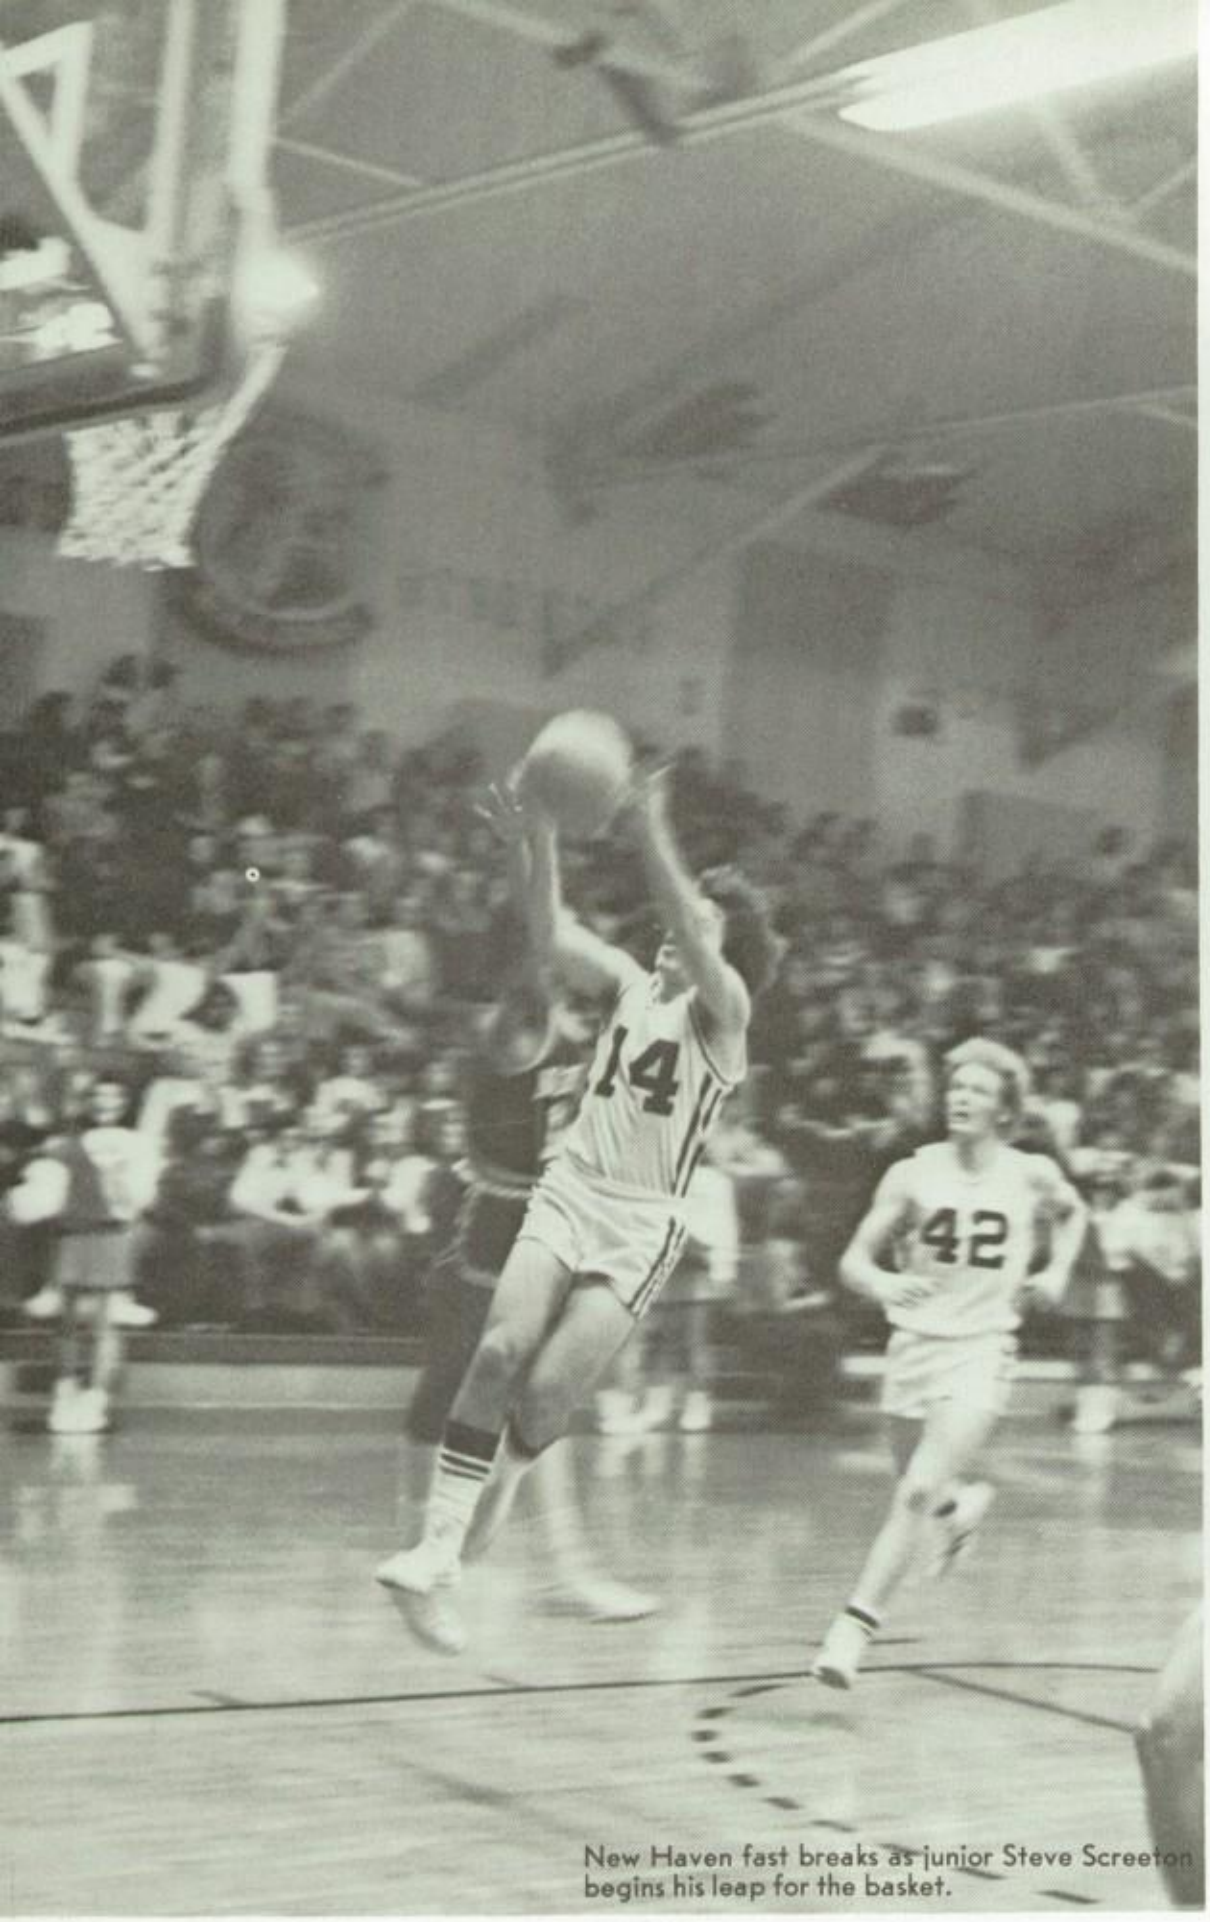
The team had a rough year shooting and hit only 34.7 percent of its shots.

Facing the visiting North Side Redskins senior Denny Metzger goes up untouched for an easy bucket.

Laying up the ball for two points is senior Jeff Boyd in a win over Heritage.

Trying to avoid a charging foul, senior Lynn Bradtmueller backs away from an opposing player at the last second.

Junior Dan Meyer goes up high in an attempt to better the Bulldog lead.



New Haven fast breaks as junior Steve Screeton begins his leap for the basket.

JV squad shows defensive ability as they try to block an opponent's shot.

Averaging 40 points a game the reserve basketball squad, under Coach Ron Hoffer, put together an excellent year by winning 13 out of 20 contests.

Hitting 37 percent from the field was sophomore John Moyer who led the team in scoring with 139 points. Following close behind were Bob Love and Ron Ehinger, who notched 139 and 128 points, respectively.

A total of 16 different boys played throughout the campaign. As a team they averaged 35 percent from the field, while hitting on 57 percent of their charity tosses. Defensively the group equaled their offensive average by giving up 40 points an encounter.

Many players split their duties with the varsity and reserve squads, including Kelly Mettert and Dave Bruick, who spent much of their time moving from squad to squad. Sophomores Mark Osborn and Gary Gordon both averaged 9.5 points a game before moving up to the varsity midway through the year.

Freshman roundballers first year successful

For the first year freshman basketball came to New Haven. The team consisted of 12 ninth graders who put together a winning season of 7-6 under their coach, Terry Garman.

The group was paced by Greg and Gary Goodwin, who led in both scoring and rebounds. The team had a 41 percent field goal average, and hit 56 percent of its free throws.

Highlighting the season was a second place finish in the Harding Tourney. The club came close to winning the tournament but fell short to Harding in the championship game 42-40.

Coach Garman expressed his happiness when he said the squad "possessed a lot of potential to aid the basketball program."

Grapplers finish season strong

Varisty wrestling corps compiled a mediocre season as it won five contests while losing five. Battling back from a poor start, the grapplers were victorious in four of their final five encounters. Coach Stan Hostetler's boys produced an overall team record of 121-126-6.

Senior Keith Klenke was named most valuable wrestler as he paced the squad by winning 17, losing six and drawing one. He also gained the most points as he scored 63.

Sophomore Jim Gentile produced an outstanding season with a record of 15-8-0. He gained a large number of points for an underclassman, having 52 for the year.

Senior Sim Geels was voted as most improved grappler as he won 15 matches. Placing well in the 135-pound class throughout the year Geels was second to Klenke in points with 54.

Heavyweight Tim Devoe set the pace with pins as he pinned opponents for seven out of his 12 victories.

The annual sectional contest at New Haven's gymnasium found Keith Klenke (180), Sim Geels (135) and Tom Tinsley (129) all winning their respective weight classes. Tim Devoe placed second in the heavyweight division. All four wrestlers advanced to regional competition.

Overall individual records found the JV grapplers winning 51 while dropping 61. Coach Bill Kerbel's wrestlers gained 250 points, but gave up a total of 307.

Other wrestlers who performed well on the year were freshman Don Gentile with a 5-3 record, sophomore Butch Cheviron who won five while losing five, and sophomore Mike Main, who was 4-2 on the year. Team members together won 16 of their contests by pins.

Hellinger won six matches while losing only one. He scored 27 points while giving up only four. Two of his opponents also were defeated by pins.

Nicholson defeated six of his eight competitors, three of them by pins. He piled up 30 points while having only six scored against him.

Many of the team statistics are not accurate. Some of the schools the squad wrestled, did not have a freshman team so many of the boys wrestled rivals that were not in their weight class.

Overall, the team won a total of 26 matches, lost 39 and tied five. They recorded 11 pins, but got pinned 18 times. The team won 68 points while losing 116.

Country jubilee provides games, entertainment

Daisy Mae's Crazy Days had everything one could want at a county fair. Over 500 students crowded to see Clerical Lab's Movie, clutched at each other as GAA's "victims," or drowned teachers at German Club's dunking booth.

Art Club streaked to success when it sold out of silk-screened T-shirts, and Spanish Club sold Spanish food, while Student Congress sold Euell-Gibbons-type snacks.

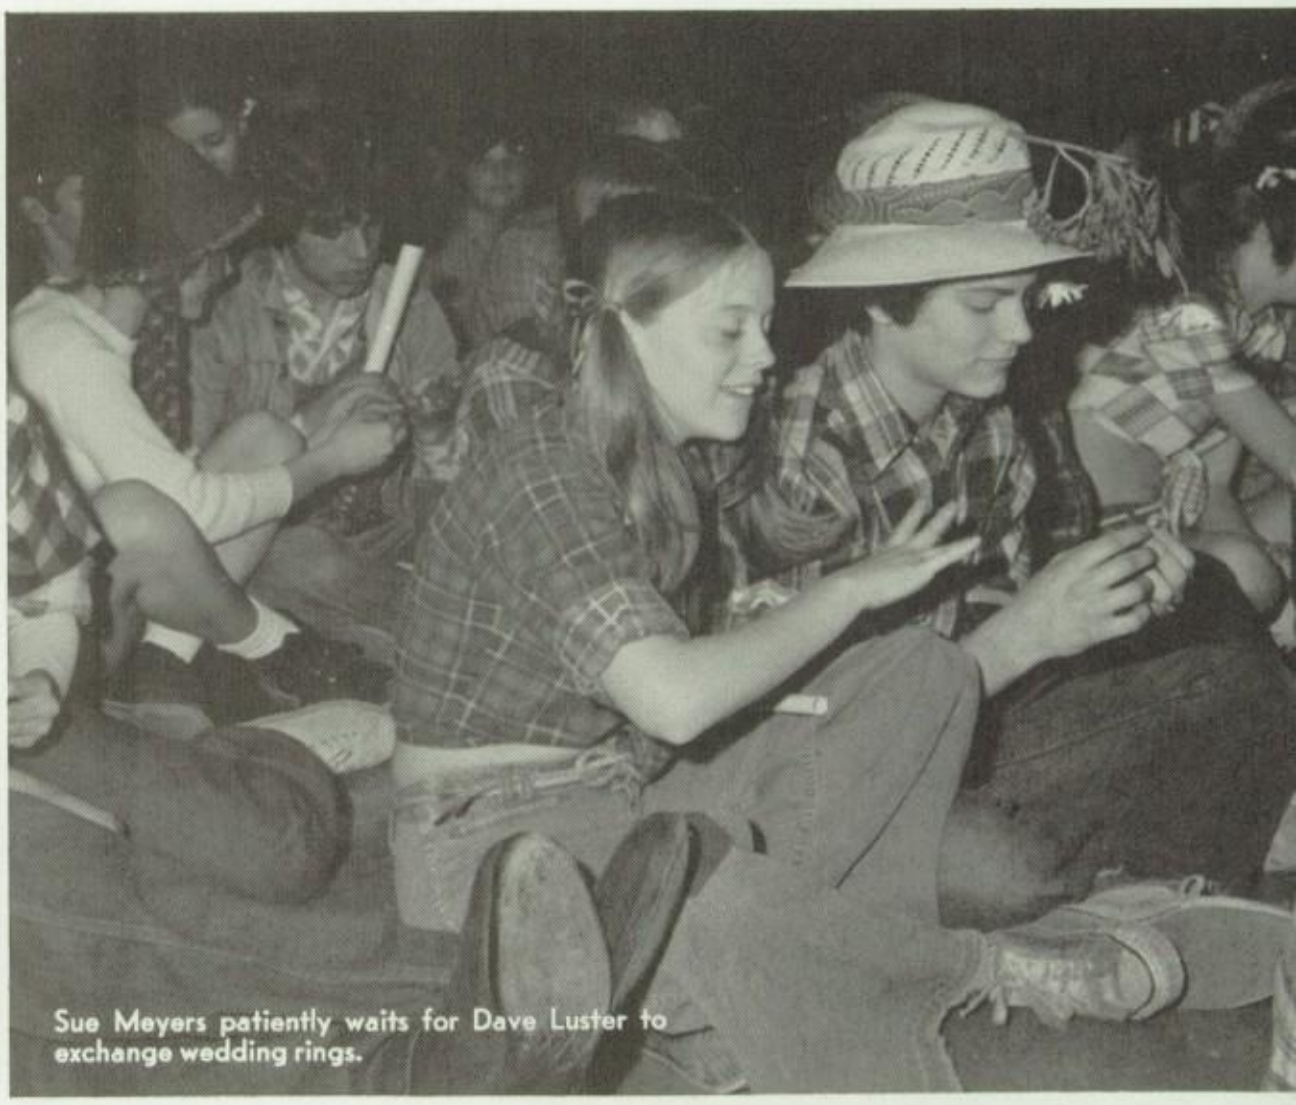
Sports fiends could enter Junior Olympics (where kissing was one of the main events,) and Publications' free throw for prizes.

Couples piled into the Girl's Gym for a hoedown, dancing and marrying, and although modern dancing was what put couples on their feet, requests for square dancing and boogieing were continually shouted at the band.

Last year's queen, Tami Beatty, senior, received the honor again as she and her catch, Dwayne Settle, reigned over Sadie Hawkins. And finally, after naming costume winners, marriage rites were pronounced. Certificates, bound for "brides and grooms," were flung out to them.

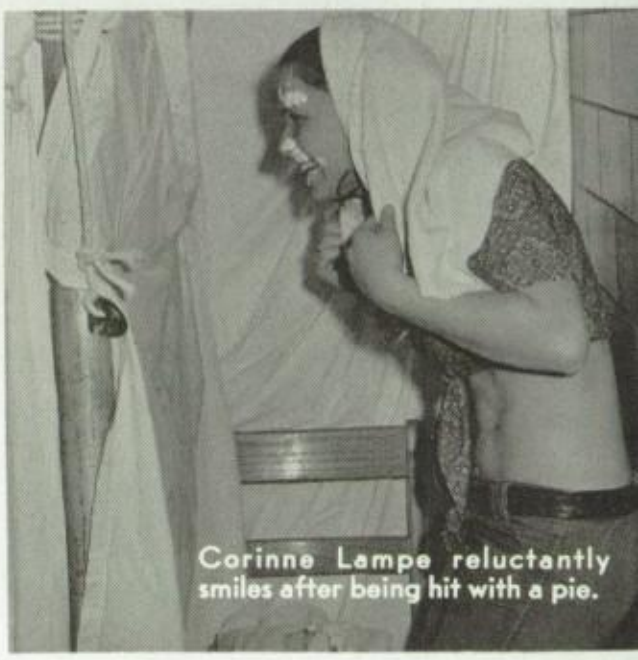
Marryin' Sam (Mr. Charles Henke) took his place in front for the ceremony and "hitched up" the girls and their catches.

"By the power put in me, Marryin' Sam, I announce y'all man and wife."



Sue Meyers patiently waits for Dave Luster to exchange wedding rings.

"Oh no, here it comes again," says Scott Coffman as Nancy Maddox throws the pie.



Corinne Lampe reluctantly smiles after being hit with a pie.

Couples share 'Precious Moments' together

Controversy surrounded the 1974 prom, "Precious and Few," as for the first time in history the prom court had to be voted on twice.

Claiming that the first electoral count was unfair, juniors finally chose Brenda Staak, Jan Schulthies, Cindy Gladieux, Deb Polley, Cindy Miller and escorts Dan Meyer, Mark Kraning, Robin Memmer, Lee Marucci and Denny Stuerzenberger as their prom representatives.

Despite the controversy, the gathering at the Chamber of Commerce was enjoyable, as participants were resplendent in their formal attire.

While dancing to the music of Walden, couples realized that their moments together are indeed "precious and few."

Realizing that their moments together are quickly slipping away as the evening ends, many couples crowd the dance floor.

Tinsley topples long-standing long jump record

Highlighting the track season was the record breaking performance of senior Tom Tinsley in the long jump. Tom shattered the 1949 record of Denny Partridge by hitting the 21' ½" mark in the New Haven Relays. In the NEIAC meet Tom topped his own record by leaping 21' 1½".

Aside from that, the cindermen had little to cheer about for the 1974 campaign as they could manage only two victories. Both were achieved in a three-way meet as they defeated both Bellmont and East Noble.

Thirteen boys earned their varsity letters for the year. The squads greatest pitfall proved to be its lack of experience as many would-be returners were shipped out to a new Harding team.

Salli Farrell wins crown

Candidates for the 1974 New Haven Relay queen were juniors Katie Lawson, Salli Farrell, and seniors Darla Backofen and Laura Eichman. Salli was chosen as queen of the Relays, which had seven schools participating in them. Running in the annual event were Bellmont, Concordia, East Noble, Harding, Bishop Luers, New Haven, and Woodlan. At the end of the meet Harding led the pack, winning with 75 points. The Bulldogs finished in fifth position.

Sophomore Karl Hans clears the bar in a four-way meet hosted by Wayne.

Aside from his role as top scientist senior Larry Wiedman also finds time to throw the discus.

Linksmen win

With only one senior and one junior playing on Coach Frank Clark's 1974 golf squad, the team put together what would have to be viewed as a highly successful season.

Winning 50 percent of its contests, the linksmen were paced by senior Jim Fullerton, who shot for an excellent average of 39 strokes per nine holes. The group started the campaign slowly by winning only one of its first five outings but quickly shaped into form by winning its next four.

At season end the varsity squad consisted of Fullerton, Kelley Mettert (40.4), Bill Erb (40.85), Mark Osborn (40.9), and Brian Lothamer (41). Depending on scores the varsity squad personnel varied throughout the year.

Bulldogs clinch co-championship

For the second time in three years, New Haven's baseball squad finished as co-champs of the NEIAC, with a mark of 7-2.

With a season full of more ups and downs than the stock market, Head Coach Don Huml's charges wound up the regular campaign to the tune of 15-13.

The Bulldogs outscored their opponents 152-132 and outhit them 225-182, but just couldn't seem to get the big hit when it counted.

Senior Dave Gentile led the offensive attack, by fashioning a .413 average. Senior Denny Metzger led in runs batted in, with 23.

The mound corps recorded two whitewashes, featuring a no-hitter by junior Rick Kumming. Senior Mike Rosene had the lowest ERA, at 1.13.

Hevel, Moyer pace JV baseball squad

Managing only two victories in five outings, Coach Fred Cass' team had its downs for 1974. Freshman Mark Hevel and sophomore John Moyer proved to be two of the most consistent performers. Hevel hit at a .462 clip while Moyer smashed the ball for an average of .375. Splitting the chores in the pitching department were sophomore Scott Reifsnider, Moyer and Brian Bowman. Senior Class of 1974 bids final farewell

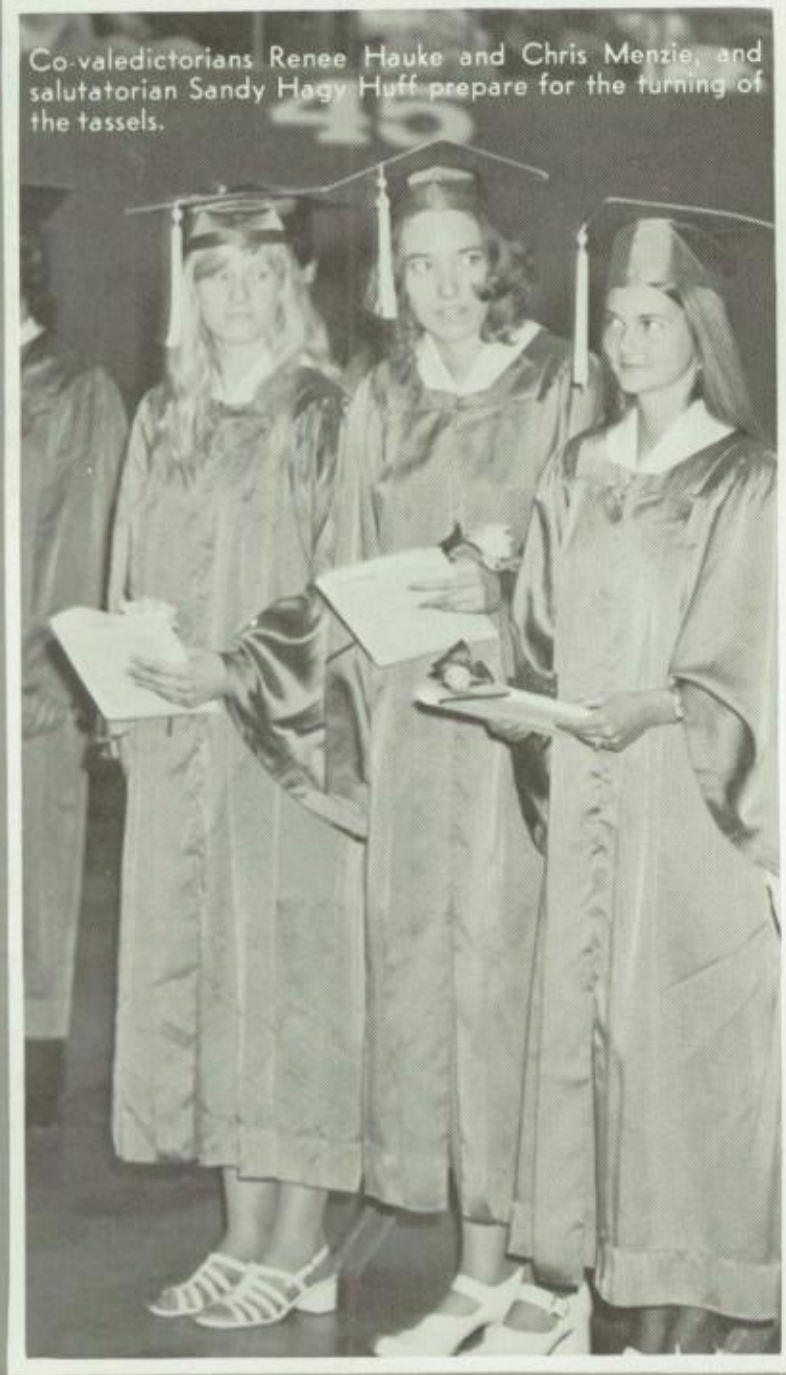
It was sometimes difficult to remain alert during the two-hour ceremony, and any form of relaxation was welcome.

"Will the class of 1974 please stand for the turning of the tassels," said class president Doug Pond. A united cheer swept through the Memorial Coliseum, as those immortal words turned 438 seniors into the graduating Class of 1974.

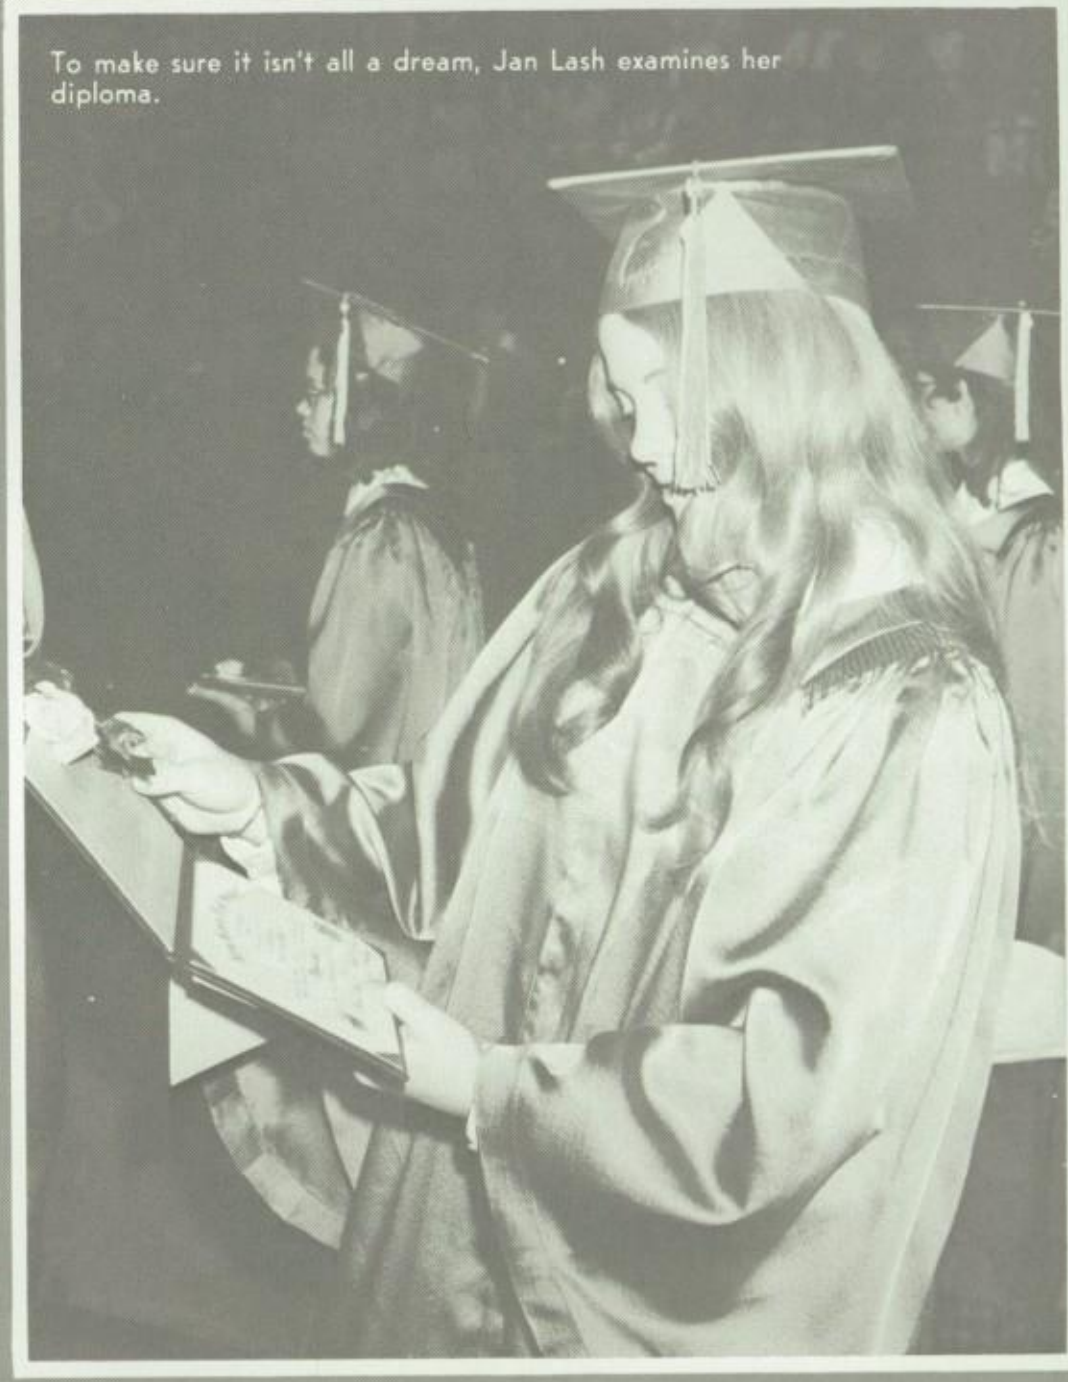
Resplendent in their purple gowns, the graduates-to-be marched into the arena as the band played the processional. After standing in line for nearly an hour and waiting to enter, and then waiting for the entire class to march in, being seated was a comfort.

Baccalaureate speaker was Reverend Thomas Wiegand of the New Haven Methodist Church. Delivering the commencement address was Mr. John Abraham, GOP county chairman of Madison County.

With the recessional playing in the background, the march out was a lot brisker than the march in.

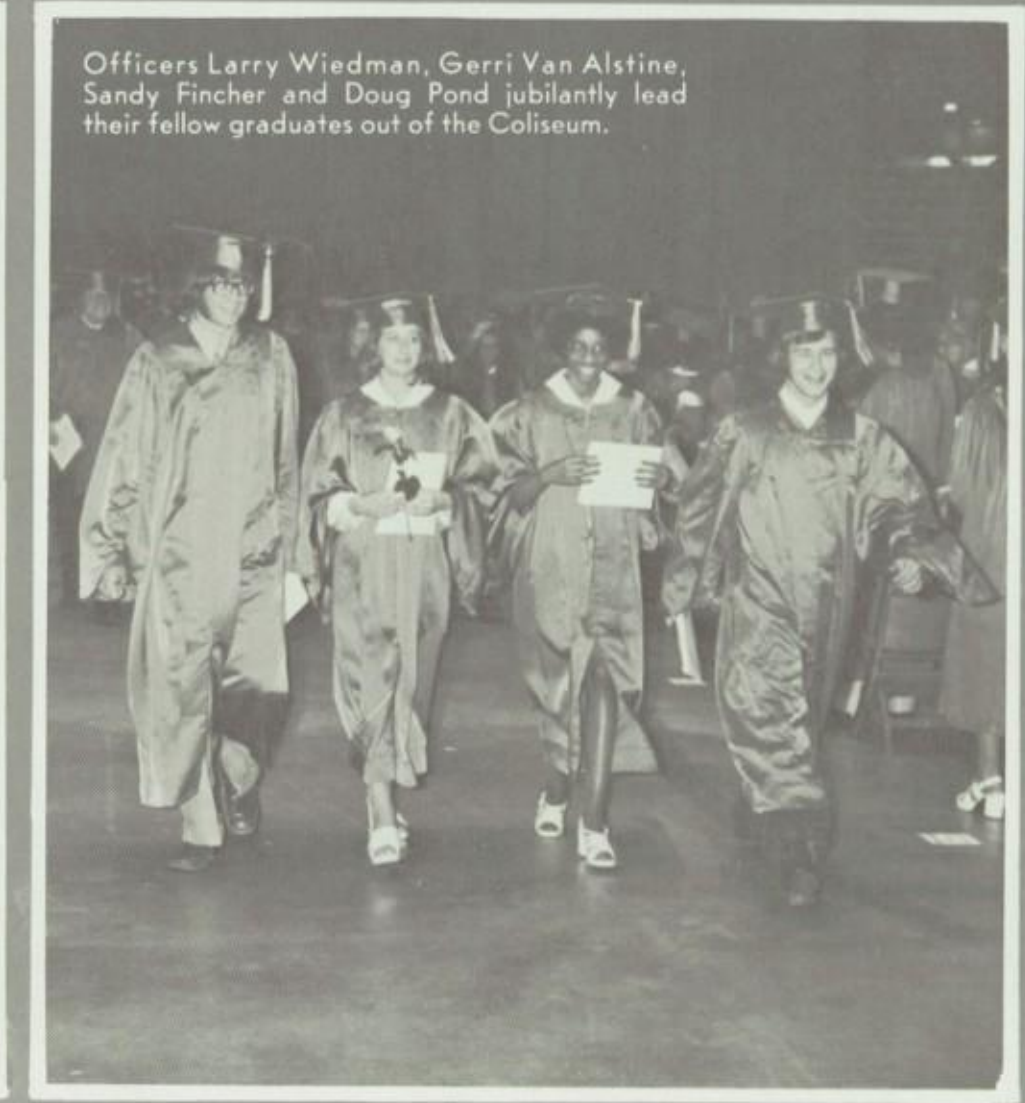


Co-valedictorians Renee Hauke and Chris Menzie, and salutatorian Sandy Hagy Huff prepare for the turning of the tassels.



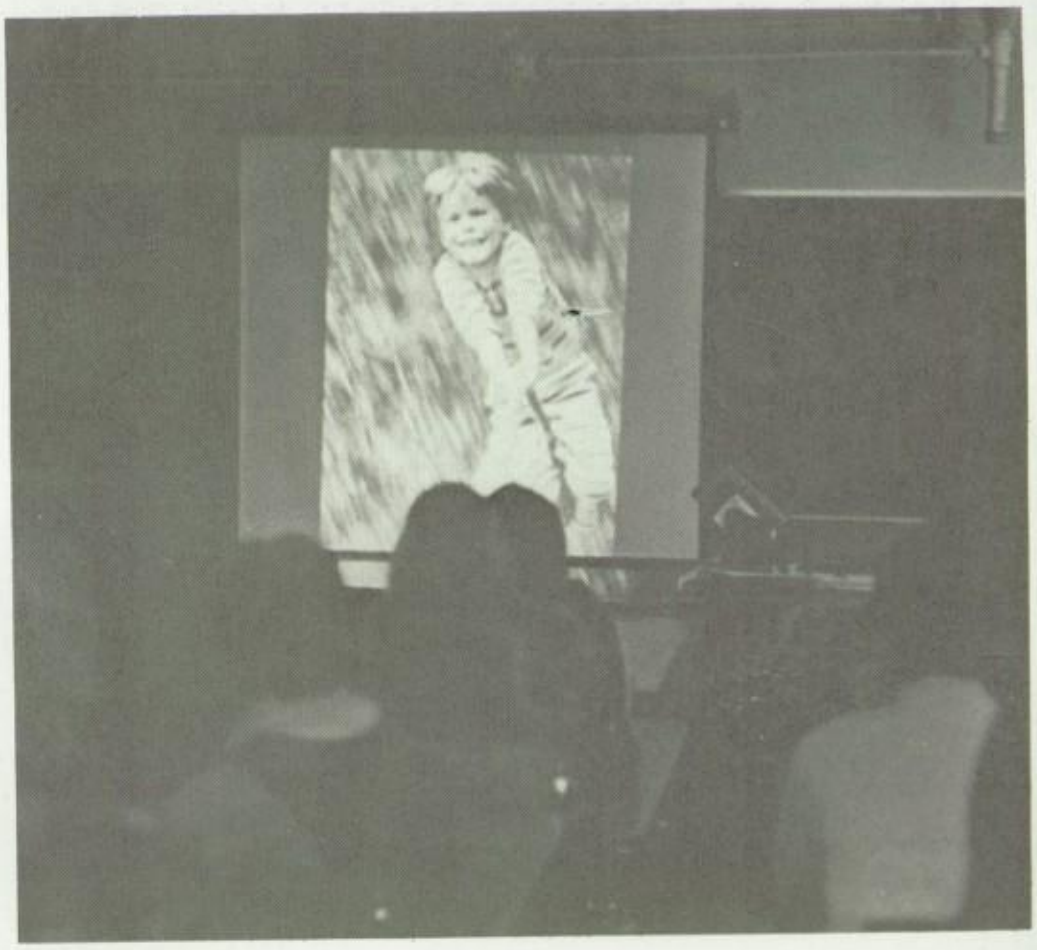
To make sure it isn't all a dream, Jan Lash examines her diploma.

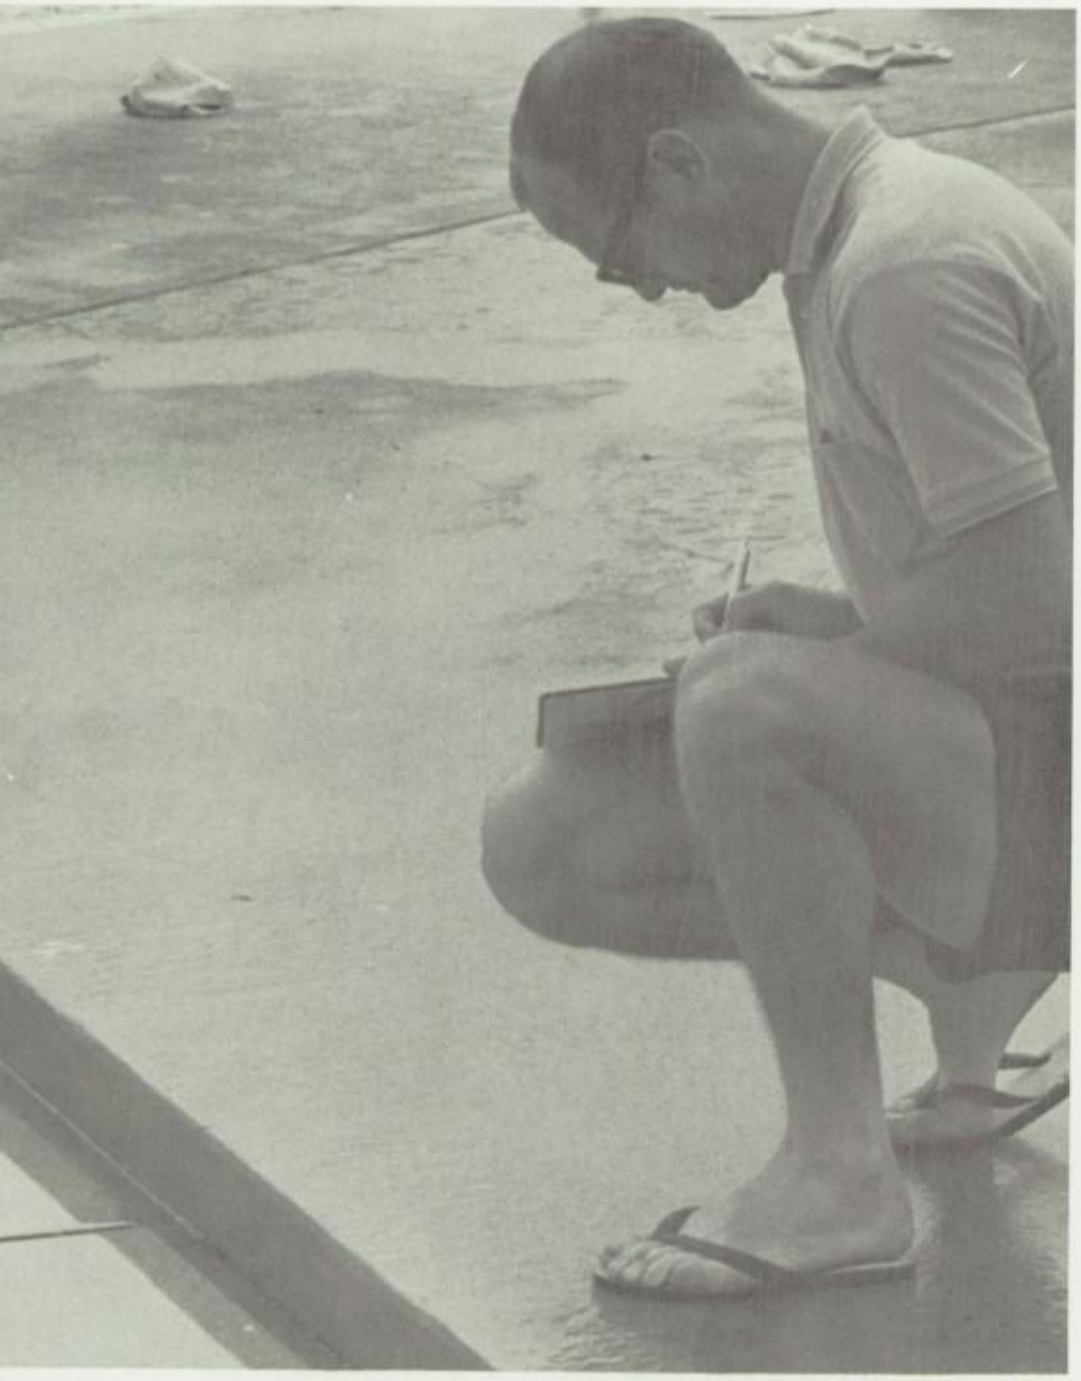
Performing his last official duty as a student, Dan Regenold receives his diploma from school board trustee Chester Schmidt.



Officers Larry Wiedman, Gerri Van Alstine, Sandy Fincher and Doug Pond jubilantly lead their fellow graduates out of the Coliseum.

Anxious to get on to the business of celebrating, graduates discard their caps and gowns and say their last good-byes.





Academics contribute to educational wealth

Asking questions, searching for answers . . . What is relevant, what is not? My memory bank is full to overflowing as it attempts to saturate fact upon fact. It is all academic—today's world demands a vast knowledge and well-developed intellect for success. Competition for top positions is greater than ever.

How do we conserve energy? Why is our economy inflated extensively? What world leaders can we trust? Should we legislate ERA in Indiana? Should I & M lease City Light? Where are the answers?

In some classes we learn to think for ourselves and to communicate with others. In some we learn practical tasks such as cooking, sewing, building homes, and fixing cars. Some classes allow us to develop our inate talents in music or art. They all help us shape our futures as we go through this part of PHASE '74—ACADEMICALLY.

In NISBOVA competition, four soloists took first on the state level: Gerri VanAlstine, Doug Pond, Aaron Carlisle and Mike McCoy. Vocal group of Kathy Marsden, Linda Bartholomew, Carla Pruesse, Sharla Stoller, Cheryl Evans and Georgia Swank won first place for its presentation. Overall, Concert Choir rated superior at NISBOVA.

Plastered student reveals creativity

Rings and bracelets result from twisted, welded metals that Robin Edmiston and Ann Rennecker design.

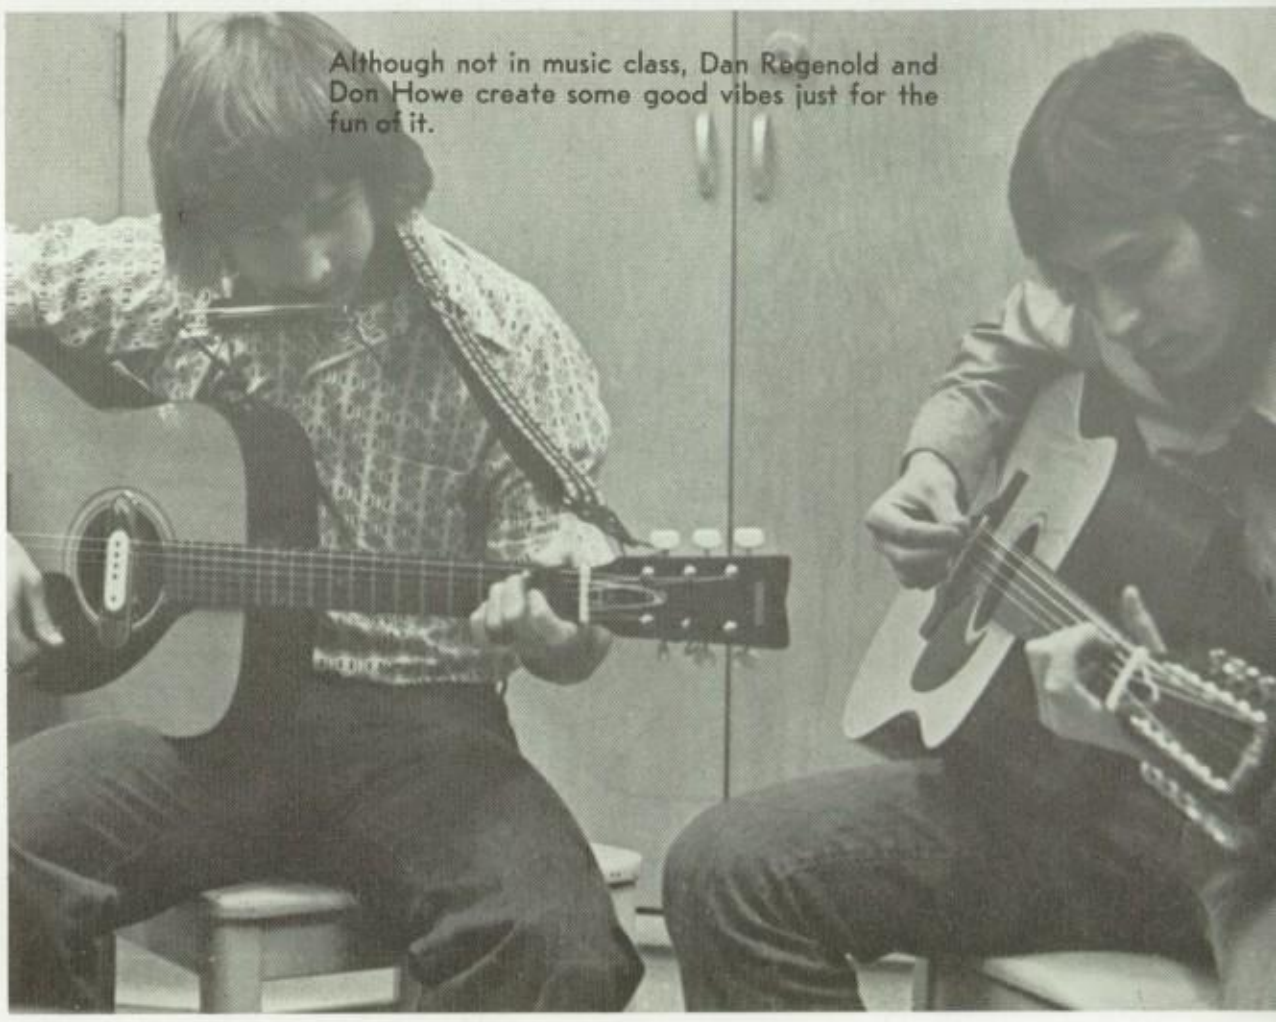
Getting plastered in school is unusual, but Trevor Davies got all wrapped up in what he was doing in Mr. Swagerle's class.

After carefully wrapping plaster of Paris around the contour of Trevor Davies' face, the bumpy white paste thickened, and a wig and glasses were added. "It" really looked homely, but when Mr. Swagerle's art students removed the hardened mask from Trevor, he was fine, and the class had a good likeness of him molded.

Jewelry made from copper and sterling silver wires and beads, and unique pottery (like a Tootsie Roll machine) were produced by the group, while next door, Ms. Mary Manifold's classes were directing their talents into colorful, intricate weavings.

Still life water colors and posters kept her students busy "creating" throughout the year.

Trevor Davies won a Gold Key Award and Kevin Detwiler, honorable mention in the Northeastern Indiana Scholastic Awards contest.



Although not in music class, Dan Regenold and Don Howe create some good vibes just for the fun of it.

Blowing their own horns, er, clarinets, Karen Kostoff, Mary Horton, Deb Huml and Melissa Barrientos practice for band.

Getting ready for spring concert, Girls Glee members Julie Greenwood, Shelley Lash, Gayle Rath and Lorraine McIntire sing softly for director Charles Henke.

Local talent reflects sounds of fifties, chipmunks, soul for exciting

Darla Backofen, Kevin Detwiler and Vickie Lampe try to keep calm between acts.

Linda Schmutte, Dawn Bartels, and Irene Gonzales sing "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy of Company B."

Linda Bartholomew, Kathy Marsden and Georgia Swank sing "I Feel Pretty," although they are dressed as washwomen.

Randy Metzger, Rhonda Weida, Lori Casterline and Liane Isenbarger mimic "What's New Pussycat," by the Chipmunks.

Daria Backofen and Vickie Lampe set the so for fifties songs with their version of "Goin the Chapel of Love."

Happening '74 show

As lights dimmed and eyes adjusted to the auditorium's darkness, Mr. Charles Henke announced that Happening '74 contained some of the finest talent yet.

From dualing tubas to James Taylor to boogie, students performed smoothly in their production of 21 acts. Mr. Henke adlibbed as he nearly fell over a mike cord, and Cindy Nulf quickly found a new mike when hers died in the middle of her number.

Silence fell upon the audience as Aaron Carlisle put his heart into "Impossible Dream," and won a standing ovation. Although some songs were nostalgic, Jo Peterson's happy face and flowers backdrop smiled on everyone throughout the evening.

Business classes teach more than just how to type

Aside from accounting, business machines, and typing many other business subjects were offered to broaden a student's business mind.

Business Law, taught by Mr. Dennis Johnson, prepared students for everyday situations in the future that may require knowledge of law. Classes took an all-day field trip to the City-County building, where they witnessed hearings in misdemeanor court. The students had a better chance to understand trial procedures by staging and solving their own crimes.

Mr. Ron Hoffer taught Consumer Education, Business Management and Bookkeeping. He has a B.S. degree from Manchester College and B.A. from Ball State University. He coached football and basketball, sponsored Sportsmanship Council and enjoys sports, outdoor activities and "drawing circles."

Mr. Dennis Johnson taught Business Law, Business Machines and Typing. He has a B.S. and a M.A. degree from Ball State University and sponsored Student Congress. Mr. Johnson likes volleyball and bowling.

Ms. Gail Moake taught Shorthand, Record Keeping and Typing. She received her B.S. degree from Ball State University and is working on a masters at St. Francis College. The Junior OEA sponsor enjoys horseback riding and badminton.

Mr. Carl Sipe taught Typing. He received his B.S. from Huntington College and his M.S. degree from Indiana University. The Cross Country Head Coach sponsored Bowling Club and likes camping and bowling.

Mr. Donald Stebing taught Typing and Advanced Bookkeeping. He obtained his B.S. degree from Wittenberg University and his M.A. from Ball State University. The Senior Class sponsor enjoys traveling, gardening, photography and singing in his church choir.

Mr. Norman Stephan taught Clerical Lab, Business Machines and Record Keeping. He received both his B.S. and M.S. degrees from Indiana University. The Chess Club sponsor was head of the Business Department, and likes to play bridge, chess and table tennis, and hike.

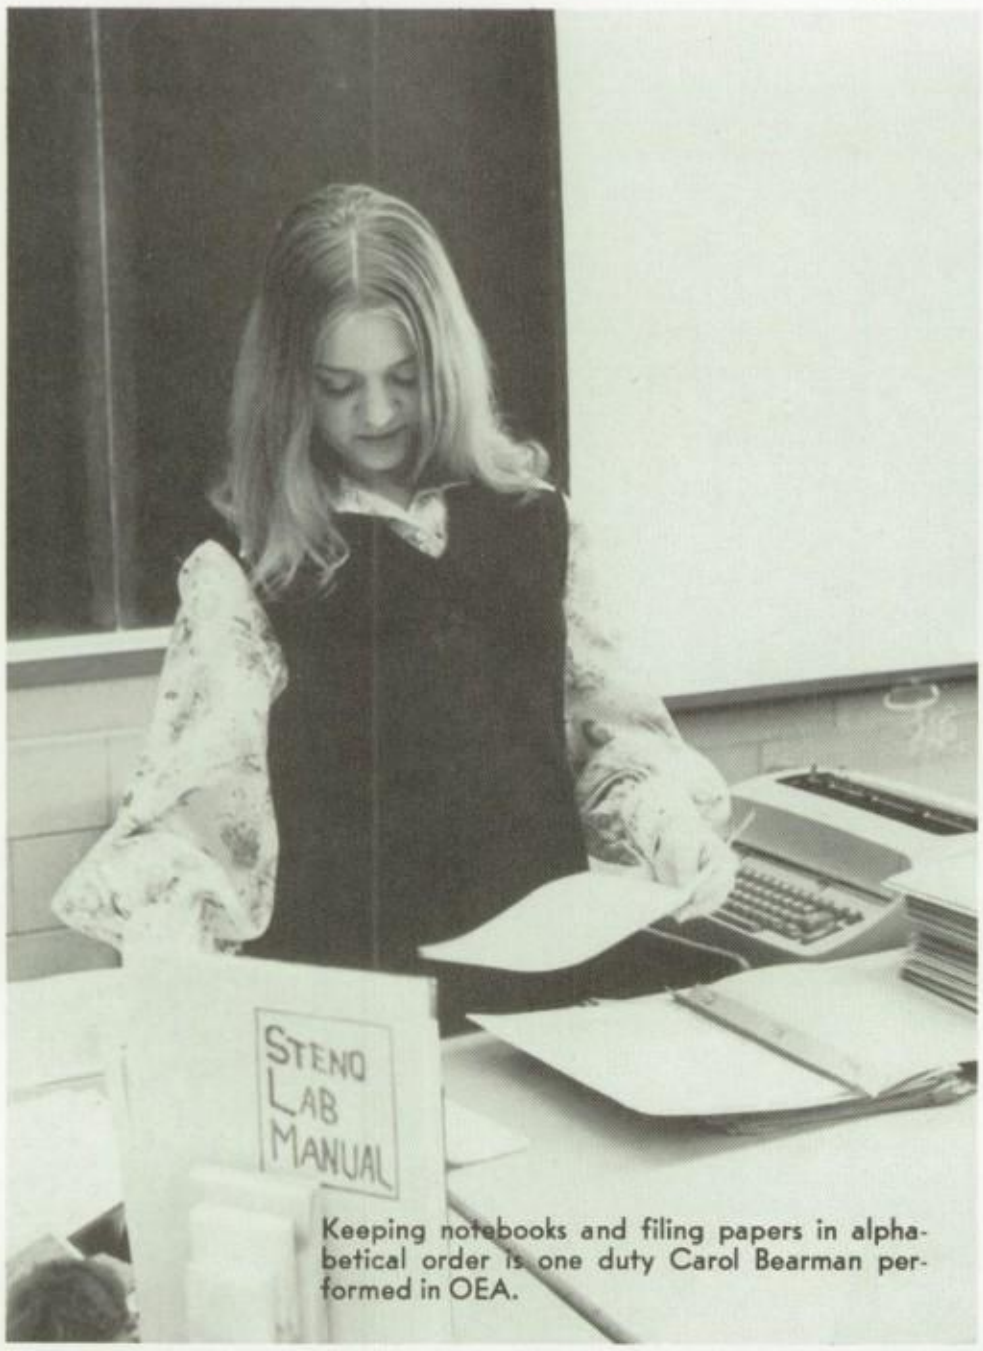
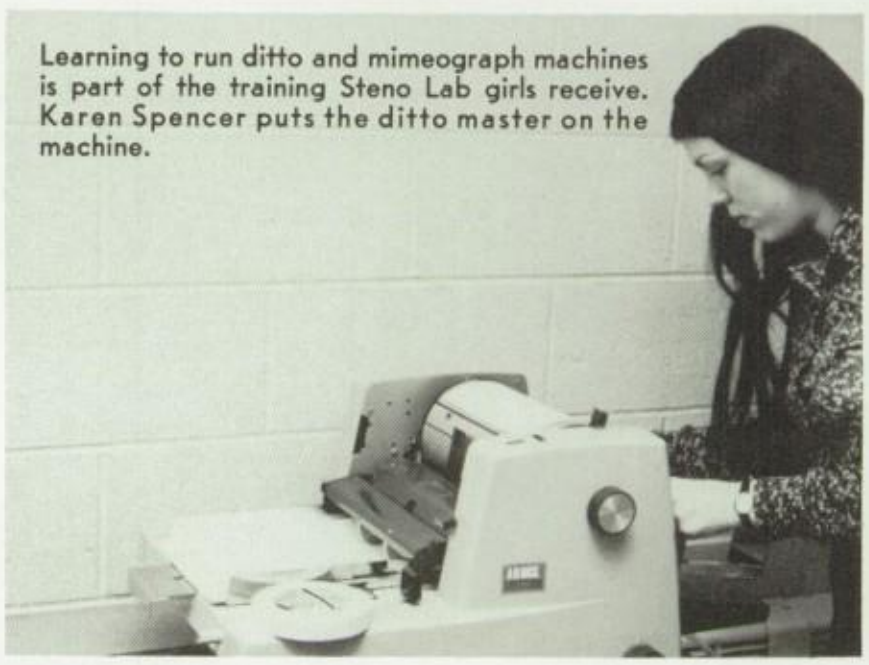
Continual selling sends OEA to contests



Keeping notebooks and filing papers in alphabetical order is one duty Carol Bearman performed in OEA.

Linda Raatz makes corrections before typing her final copy.



Learning to run ditto and mimeograph machines is part of the training Steno Lab girls receive. Karen Spencer puts the ditto master on the machine.

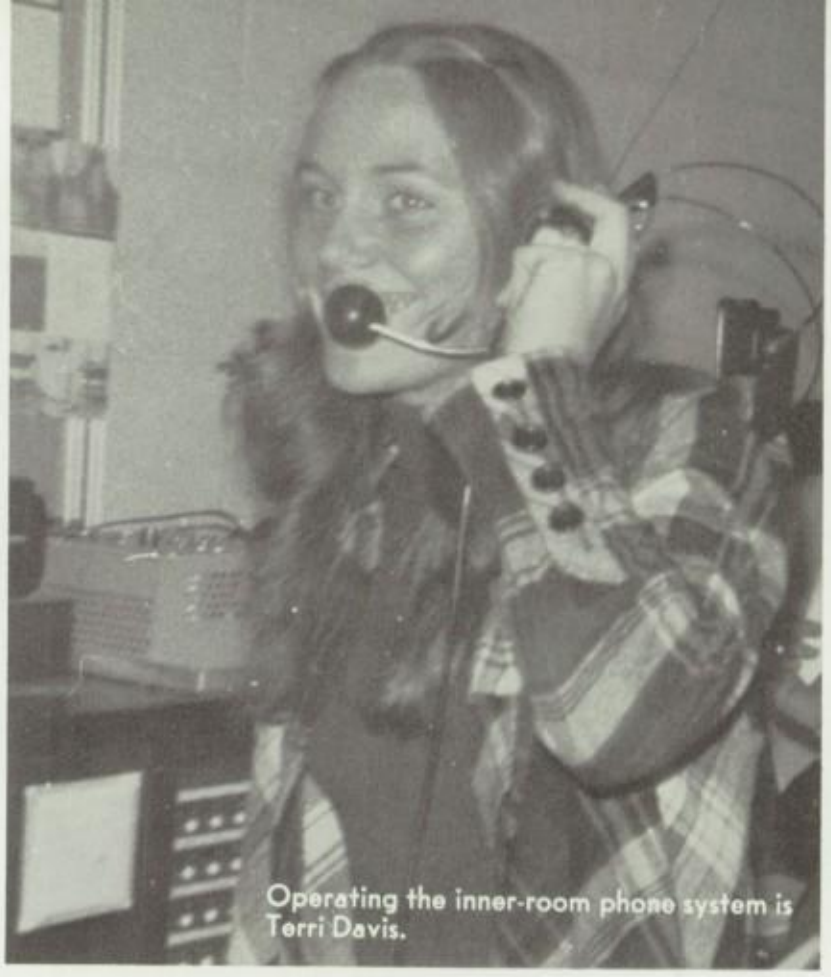
Midway through the year OEA invited its advisory committee and employer-teachers to join them for dinner at Hall's Gas House. Enjoying the meal are Linda Raatz, Valerie Gottfried, Jan Hockemeyer, Cindy Ward, LuAnn Goodwin and Elaine Flory.

Constantly working on fund-raising projects, Steno Lab raised enough money to attend state and national contests in Indy and Minneapolis. To kick-off contests, the girls hosted a banquet at Hall's Gas House for their teacher-employers and advisory committee.

Eighteen members competed at Northrop for regionals. Winners went to Indianapolis in March. There, Cheryl Broughton, Pam Walt and Janet Miller qualified for nationals.

OEA answered phones in the local Jerry Lewis Telethon, typed for WMEE and typed PTA newsletters as part of its civic project participation. Throughout the year the girls met secretaries, learned good grooming habits and talked with employment agency reps.

Pat Brockman organizes the pages in her notebook of steno assignmnets.



Operating the inner-room phone system is Terri Davis.

Assisting teachers by typing and duplicating materials was one way Clerical Lab learned office work.

Mr. Stephan prepared the girls for office work while telling jokes. They visited Lincoln Life, IBM and Mutual Security Insurance Company to view their secretarial pools and learned telephone and operator techniques.

Highlights of the year were the Sadie Hawkins movie (which had technical problems) and a picnic.

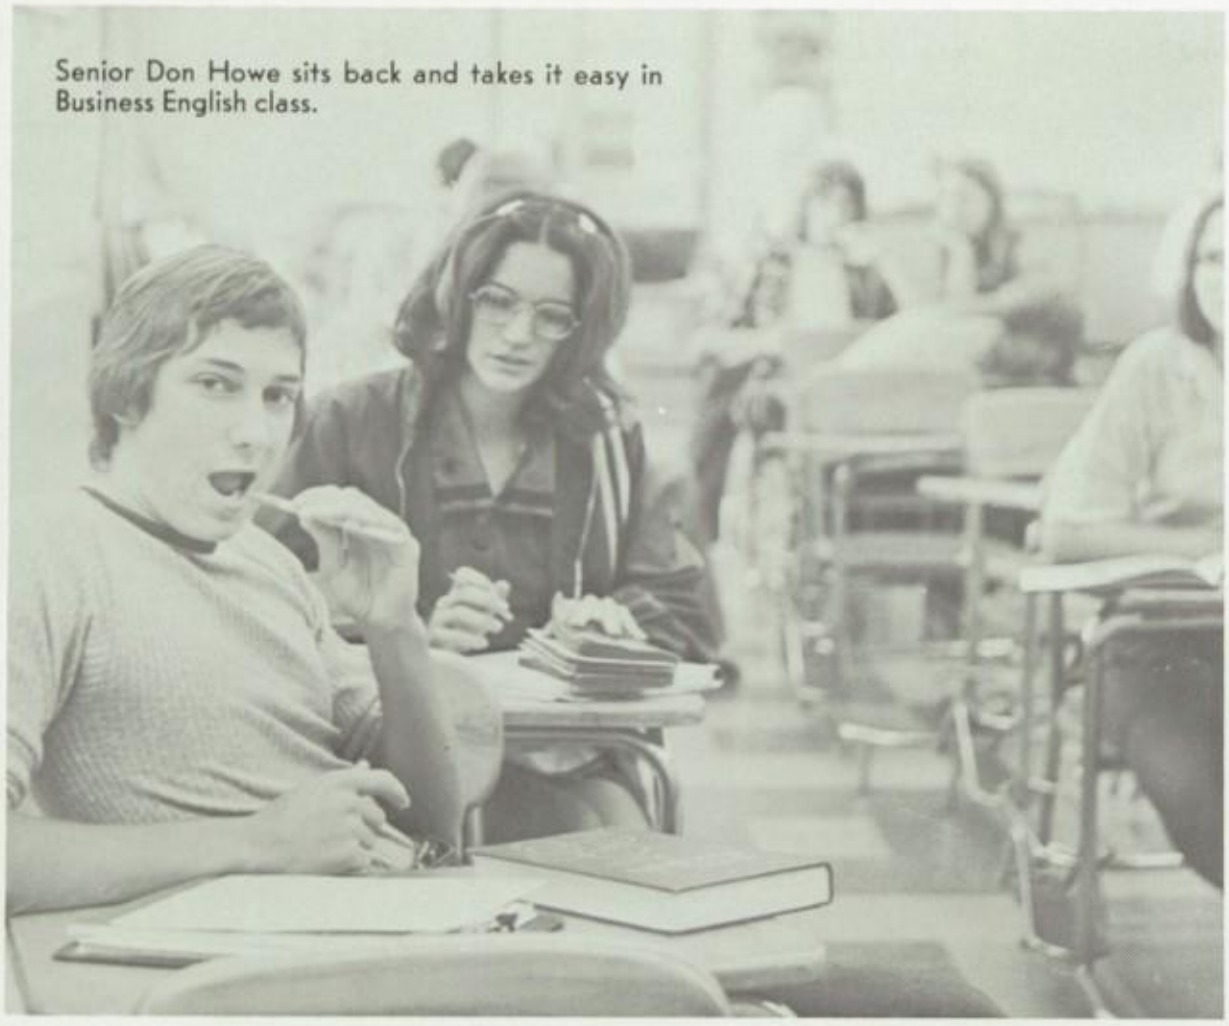
Many hours of reading in and out of class were spent by Rosann Mangrum along with other literature students.



Senior Don Howe sits back and takes it easy in Business English class.

English classes spend time readin' and writin'

A new class was added to the English Curriculum this year. Mr. Lawrence Huff led an Honors Literature class which focused on detailed study works by great American and foreign writers including Shakespeare. This class was intended for advanced literature students.

The English Department provided each student with a balance of information concerning grammar, writers, writing and reading. Mr. Francis May was head of the English department.

Although sometimes it's much easier to daydream junior Steve Huffman concentrates on the teacher's lecture.

Biking, crafts, occupy teachers' time

Ms. Mary Anne Ashworth taught Integrated Grammar, Vocabulary Building, Creative Writing and Theme Writing courses. She received her B.A. in French and English from Purdue University, and her M.S. in education from Purdue University. She advised In Medias Res Club and enjoys cooking and bicycling.

Ms. Susan Dettmer taught Beginning and Advanced Journalism and Business English classes. The newspaper and yearbook adviser has a B.S. degree from Ball State University in journalism and psychology, and is working on a masters in journalism and public relations from BSU. Her other interests include making candles, latching rugs, reading, crewel embroidery, making terrariums and other crafts.

Ms. June Holt taught Beginning Grammar and Beginning Literature. A sponsor of Vision Magazine, she has a bachelors degree in education from Indiana Central College and masters in education from St. Francis College. She enjoys reading, cooking and traveling.

Mr. Larry Huff taught Great Books, Honors Literature, English Literature and American Literature. He has a bachelors degree in math from Indiana Tech and an M.A. in literature from Purdue University. Mr. Huff sponsored American Youth Hostels, and is a reading, writing and bicycling enthusiast.

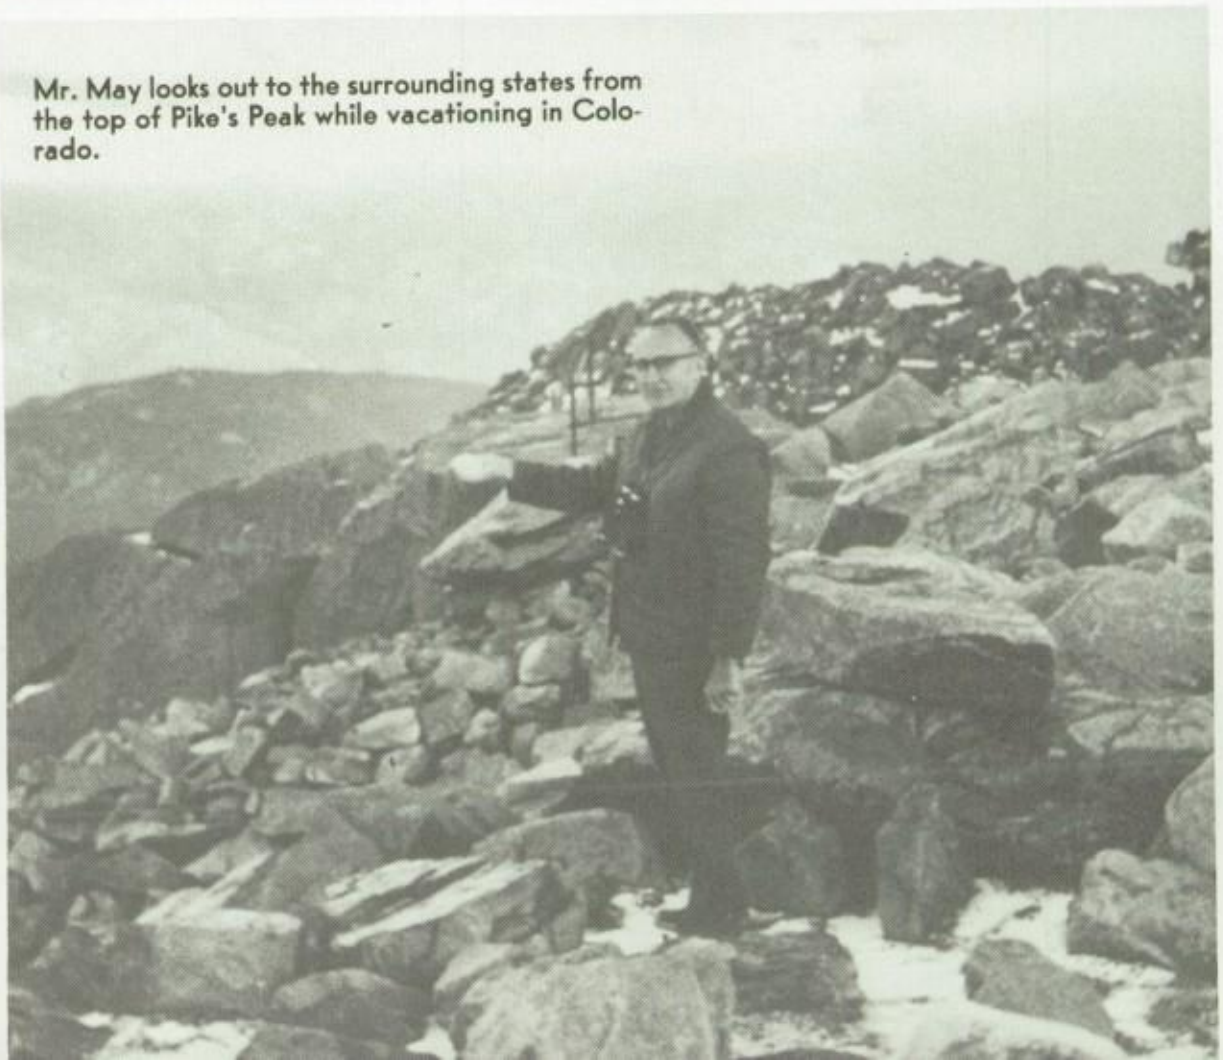
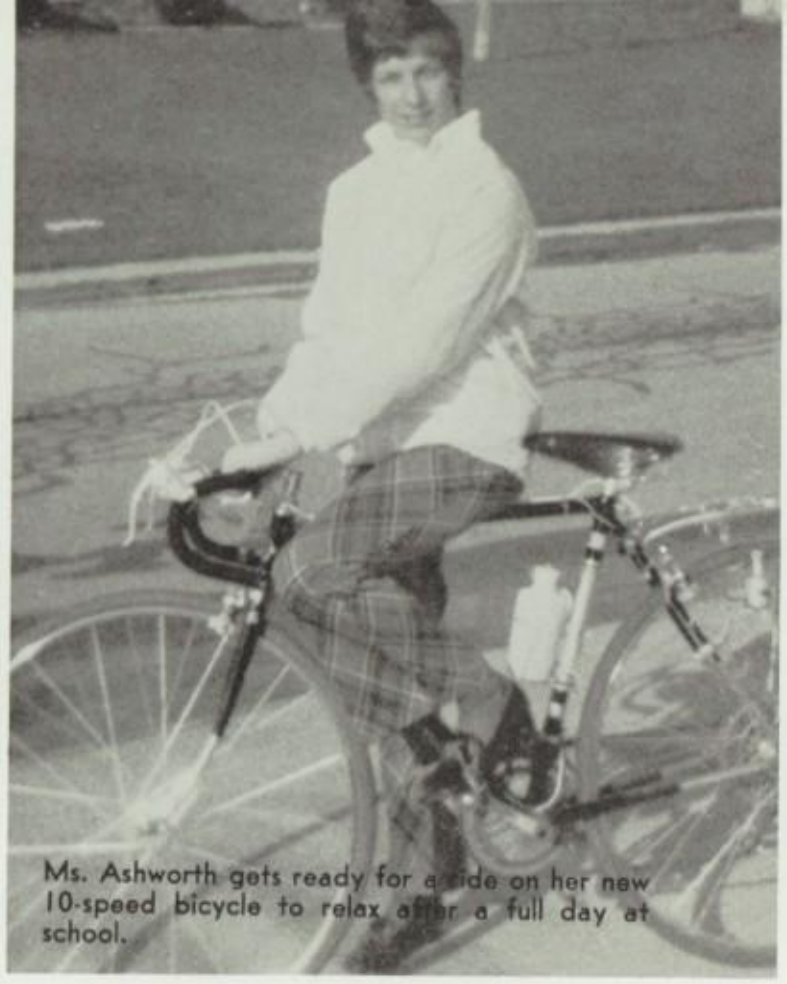
In her mobile home Ms. Dettmer adds a sea shell to the terrarium she made.



Mr. May looks out to the surrounding states from the top of Pike's Peak while vacationing in Colorado.



Ms. Ashworth gets ready for a ride on her new 10-speed bicycle to relax after a full day at school.

Mr. H. Hamilton Kart taught Short Story, Debate, Word Power, Creative Writing and Integrated Grammar. The NFL and Debate sponsor received his B.S. from Northwestern University and his masters in education from the University of Missouri and Purdue. He likes to hunt, play bridge, fish and work with photography.

Ms. Rita Kinniry taught Reading and English. She received her B.A. in English and French from St. Francis College and is working on a masters and reading endorsement at St. Francis. The Pep Club sponsor enjoys swimming and playing tennis.

Ms. Anita Kinzie taught Modern Drama, Poetry, Bible Literature and Business English. She was head sponsor of Student Congress, and has a B.A. degree from Manchester College and DePauw University, and M.A. from Northeastern Missouri and Ball State Universities. She enjoys plays, movies, reading and music "from Bach to Santana", and collecting antiques.

Mr. Francis E. May taught Speech, Honors Grammar and Integrated Grammar. He has an A.B. from Ball State University and M.A. from University of Michigan. He sponsored Masque & Gavel Club and NFL. Mr. May enjoys traveling, playing euchre and bridge and hiking.

Ms. Sharon Schlickman taught Beginning Grammar and Beginning Literature and was a sponsor for Vision Magazine. She has a B.S. from Ball State University and M.S. from St. Francis College and Purdue University. She enjoys reading, crafts and sports.

Presentation of the three-act play "Come Blow Your Horn" was only the beginning of activities for Masque and Gavel.

Under the sponsorship of Mr. Francis May, the group's first happening was the New Haven Speech Tournament in November.

Immediately following that event the membership began preparing for the three-act. Selecting of a cast and the memorizing of lines were major considerations at this time.

The club also prepared two one-act plays for presentation to civic organizations and the school body. They were entitled "Home to Mother" and "Pinch Me."

Following the three-act performance in March, M & G had its three-act party at Halls Smorgasboard. "Francis Awards," with humorous overtones, were presented to well-deserving participants in the production.

The final banquet, which was one of a more serious nature, was in May. Members were given awards on the basis of the number of points they had received during the year.

President of the organization was Liane Isenbarger.

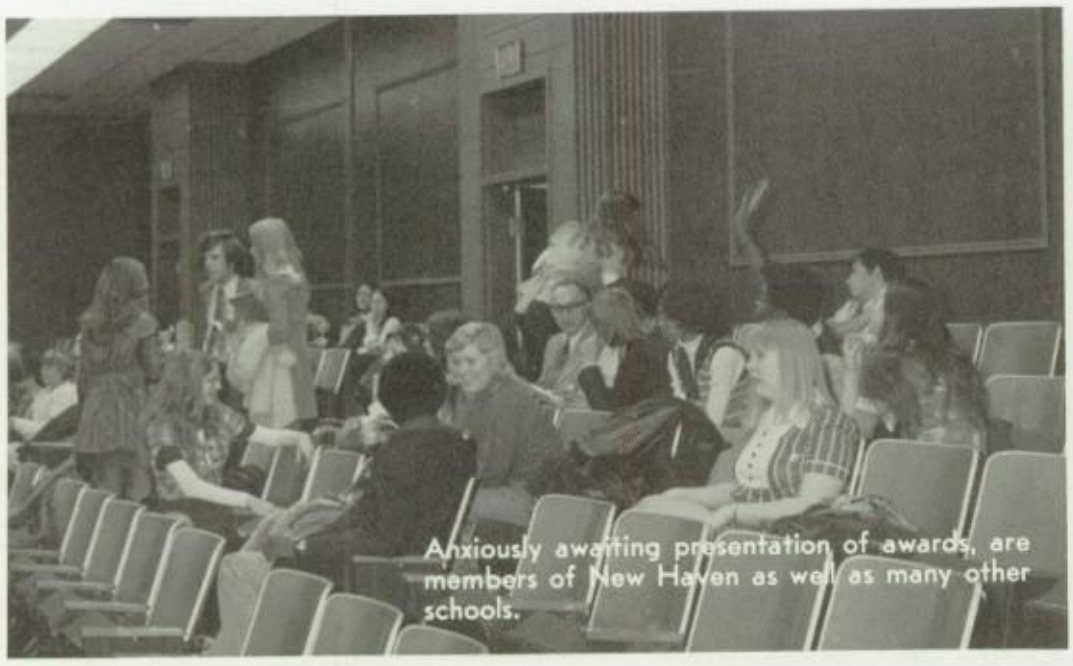
NFL brings home ribbons, trophies



Anxiously awaiting presentation of awards, are members of New Haven as well as many other schools.

Liane Isenbarger happily accepts a trophy at one of the speech tournaments.

National Forensic League left from school during the early morning hours on Saturday mornings to participate in speech tournaments. But it was worth the loss of sleep because the speakers always returned home with ribbons, trophies and plaques to show their efforts.

Highlights of the year were the New Haven Invitational Tourney and a series of tournaments leading to the national level.

Officers for the year were Jim Leonard, president; Tom Theisen, vice-president; Lorna Schofield, treasurer; Lori Casterline, secretary.

NFL prepared students for public speaking. They competed in poetry, impromptu, girls and boys extemporaneous, debate and humorous interpretation.

In Medias Res sponsors Human Awareness Week

IN MEDIAS RES—Ann Bryant Clark, Michelle Bremer, Steve Reed, Lorna Schofield, Carol Uebelhoer, Mike Lynch, Kathy Fritz, Sue Fletcher, Monica Seger, Buffie Stumpf, Ms. Ashworth, Linda McComb.

Forming at mid-year, In Medias Res came up with the ingenious idea of sponsoring a week whereby students would be more aware of happenings in the outside world.

Under the direction of club sponsor Ms. Mary Anne Ashworth, the five-day symposium, called Human Awareness Week, offered the student body the opportunity to meet interesting people and, at the same time, learn a little something more about their environment. Featured speakers were mostly Jewish, feminist, Black or self-awareness oriented.

The program was rated an overall success, and the idea could become an annual event.

To help raise money, the club sponsored a tire-changing contest at Sadie Hawkins.

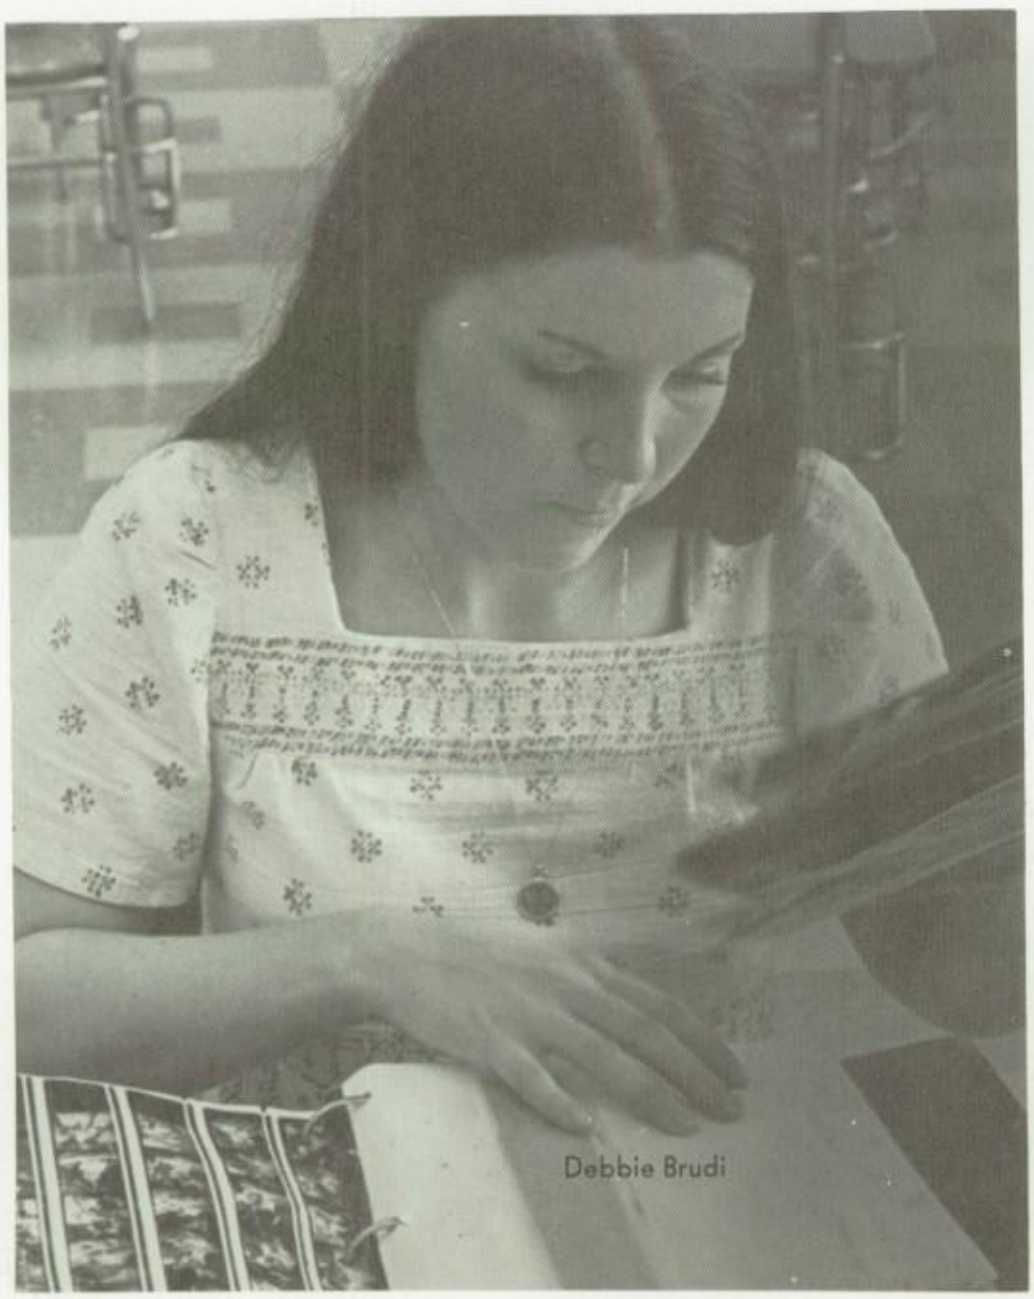
Paper shortage hinders HERALD



Debbie Brudi

Jana Ridgway

Combatting the odds of a severe paper shortage, THE HERALD staff continued to put out a first rate newspaper. THE HERALD was forced to move to a new printer and the shortage of newsprint put the news on a heavier type of paper which students accepted quickly.

In addition to the usual staff problems, two editors resigned during the year mainly due to their inability to meet all their obligations.

After a whole semester of complaining about the sports writing, the sports department obtained a unique writing team in Mike Rosene and Don Howe. Although they made habits of missing deadlines week after week, this dynamic duo added a certain spice to the sports page.

At the publications banquet in May, junior Lisa Helm was awarded the Outstanding HERALD Staff Member, which was voted upon by the entire staff. Lisa was appointed Editor-in-Chief of the newspaper for the 1974-75 school year. Lisa hopes to continue the string of first place awards the HERALD has received from the National Scholastic Press Association and CSPA.

Fifteen rookies comprise yearbook staff

The date—May 24, 1974. The problem—one-hundred and thirty pages left to do on the 1974 edition of the New Haven MIRAGE. This was the saga of the illustrious MIRAGE staff captained by senior Gary Blair and junior Jean Pond. Procrastination was one of the major pitfalls that led to the crew remaining at school an additional two weeks after the shutdown for the annual summer vacation.

Sixteen students comprised a staff that worked well together (when they worked). Although deadlines often confronted the staff, spirits were always high as the crew could find time to chant the lyrics to their favorite tunes and relate the latest gossip news.

Inexperience was one hindrance which led to the staff staying after school many a night. The only veteran from last year's staff was co-editor Gary Blair.

The publications staff held its annual banquet at the Heritage House Smorgasbord on May 22. Masters of ceremonies were seniors Dan Regenold, Don Howe, and Gerry Treesh.

Awards were presented to each of the 29 attendants. Senior Chris Underwood was awarded the most valuable photographer and senior Dan Regenold was chosen as most valuable yearbook staffer.

Several awards were also presented to adviser Ms. Sue Dettmer, without whose help and guidance this masterful piece of literary excellence would have been impossible. (And nearly was.)

Members of Spanish classes clown it up for the watchful eye of the camera.

French classes host exchange student

French, German, Latin and Spanish were the foreign languages included in the curriculum.

To vary the learning techniques, exchange students were invited to speak in the classes along with presentation of tapes and film strips. In the case of the French classes an exchange student helped teach for two months as the French Club paid for his plane ticket to the United States.

Skits were performed in classes to make use of everyday dialogue in the language. All of this made it much easier to read and write the language.

One of the interesting events undertaken by the fourth year French Classes was the sending of cassette tapes to French Classes in France. The class received the tapes back in the mail and learned about France's culture and schooling.

Ms. Mary Jo Purvis

Ms. Mary Jo Purvis taught French. The French Club sponsor received her B.A. and M.A. degrees from St. Francis College, the University of Renes and the University of Nice. She enjoys traveling and cooking.

Mr. Tod Wright taught Latin classes and Vocabulary Building. He sponsored Junior Classical League and received his B.A. from Ball State University and M.A. from Indiana University. His special interests are ballroom dancing, ice skating, traveling, Roman History and Italian.

Ms. Doris Mann taught Spanish courses and sponsored Spanish Club. She received her A.B. degree from Manchester College, and her M.S. from St. Francis College. The Senior Class sponsor enjoys traveling and sewing.

Mr. Guenther Rohrmoser taught German 1-5. The German Club sponsor went to high school in Germany, received his B.A. from the University of Miami, Florida, and his M.A. from Middlebury College, Vermont. His special interests include the outdoors, traveling, antiques, politics, books, art and theater.

JCL scrapbook wins first at I.U.

Junior Classical League opened the year by initiating new members. The initiates needed 75 points to be admitted to the organization.

Other events of the year included a trip to Indiana University in Bloomington for the state JCL convention where the New Haven Chapter took first place for the best scrapbook for another consecutive year. Jodi Taylor was elected state vice-president at the state convention. Other events were the Saturnalia celebration and the annual banquet in the high school cafeteria, where other schools were guests of Mr. Wright's JCL.

French Club cops fifth straight soccer title

Fielding a strong squad, French Club rode an undefeated season to their fifth straight language soccer championship.

Captained by senior Dan Regenold, the team scored two victories over both Doug Pond's German group and Craig Pierson's Spanish soccer participants.

Play was confined to only a four-game fall schedule, as reorganization problems prevented contests in the spring.

To retain order, Mr. Sam May's officiating class handled refereeing duties.

Vice-president Monica Larson, treasurer Mike Kiebel, and president Chris Menzie ride in French Club's Homecoming car.

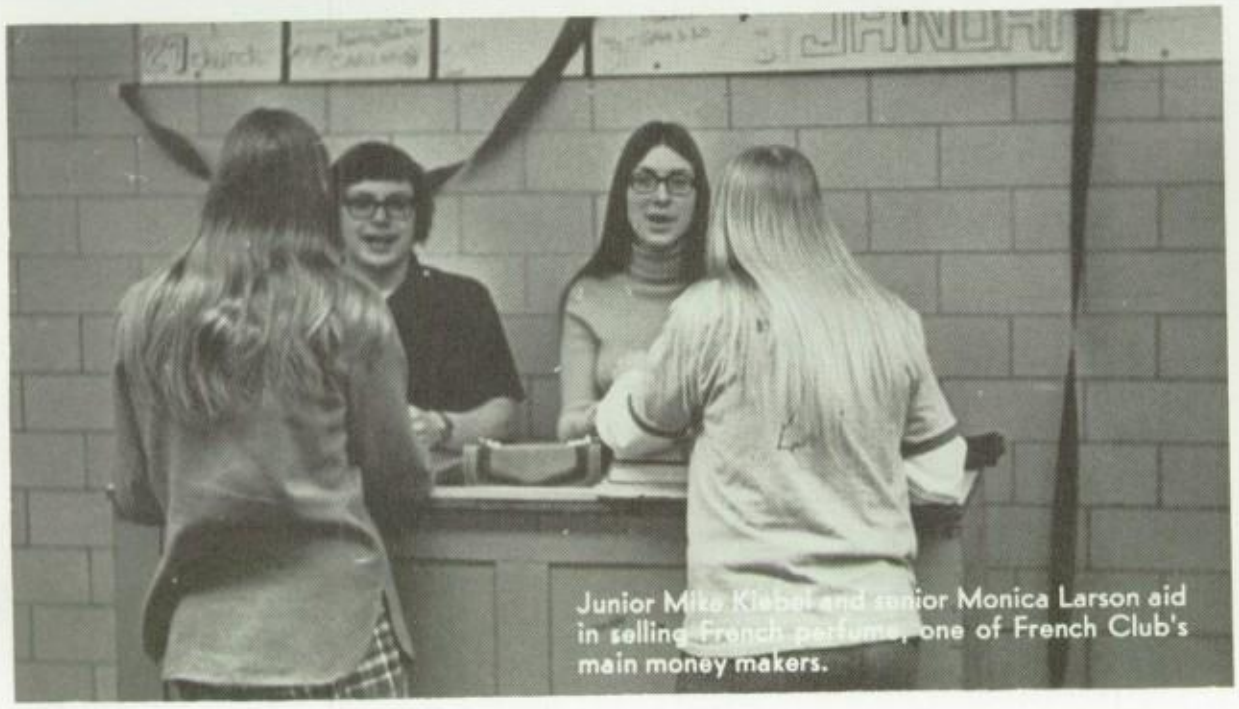
Clubs active,

Mardi Gras and initiation were the main events of the year along with usual soccer games. Mardi Gras literally translated means "Fat Tuesday" and was the celebration of a French holiday on the Tuesday before Ash Wednesday where all members dressed up as famous French people. The event was capped off with the making of crepes, a French pastry wrapped in jellies and sugar.

Initiation welcomed new French Club members by old members. For the fifth year in a row French Club won the soccer trophy for compiling the best record in interlingual soccer play. The soccer schedule consisted only of fall games as the participating clubs had trouble organizing in the spring.

The year end banquet was held at Cafe Johnells where individual awards were also presented. This year the French classes were fortunate to have an exchange college student from France. He assisted sponsor Ms. Mary Jo Purvis in teaching some classes.

French club president was Chris Menzie.



Junior Mike Kiebel and senior Monica Larson aid in selling French perfume, one of French Club's main money makers.

Spanish club commenced the year with a swimming party in the early summer. Sponsored by Ms. Doris Mann, the club also participated in the three-team interlingual soccer league. One of the first official activities of the year was the initiation of new members.

Other activities during the year included a float in the homecoming parade, a poster in victory hall, a booth at Sadie Hawkins selling Burritos, a Christmas party at Port O' Call apartments where a pinata was featured and an end of the year banquet at El Cids.

Officers were Georgia Swank, president; Beth Stebing, vice-president; and Sharla Stoller, secretary-treasurer.

To kick-off the year German Club played soccer against the other foreign language clubs. German Club celebrated Oktoberfest, a festival in October where all members dress as German personalities. The following month was initiation of new members. December included a Christmas party. The group also had an Easter party, karnival and end-of-the-year banquet.

German Club was to promote German culture and language. To help students learn, tapes were made available for them to work individually.

Officers were Jan Schulthies, president; Jean Pond, vice-president; Pam Black, secretary; and Sharon Lowden, treasurer.

Members of German Club toast the new officers for next year at the end-of-the-year banquet at the Old Heidelberg in Huntington.

Working as an individual on independent study of unipacs or as a member of a large group, math still takes a lot of application. "Think and practice" are the main things to remember.

New Haven offered a variety of math courses this year. These classes included general math, advanced general math, geometry, Algebra 1 & 2, Algebra 3 & 4, analytical geometry, Algebra 4 & trigonometry, trigonometry and calculus. Geometry classes worked with the new individualized study as well as the traditional study. Two new teachers were acquired from the junior high: Mr. Bill Parman and Mr. John Garvin.

P.E. becomes necessity for streakers

Many activities were encountered during the year for both boys' and girls' physical education classes. As summer weather lingered on, classes were forced into freezing water at the Highland Terrace Pool. As snows covered the ground, classes participated in volleyball, basketball, and dancing.

Guys tried their luck at gymnastics, tennis, and wrestling. Free exercises, self defense and indoor hockey kept the girls busy during the winter months. Time was allowed for Marine Fitness Tests and for skill testing. The girls participated in vigorous skill tests and others broke the rules by STREAKING through school halls.

Gymnastics squad heads year-long GAA activities

Proving some of their own athletic prowess, the feminine sector of New Haven participated in various sporting events, under the auspices of GAA.

Fielding teams in volleyball, basketball, gymnastics and tennis, the girls added their own form of excitement in their competition.

Topping the list was the gymnastics team, which sent 12 participants to the sectionals. On to regionals went Dawn Gibson and Beth Snyder, with the latter going all the way to state.

The volleyball and basketball squads also had fine performances, with the former constructing a fine 15-1 slate.

Under the sponsorship of Ms. Kay Heiney, fund-raising for the club included selling candles, assorted cards, stationery and New Haven jerseys.

NJROTC visits Norfolk air station, ships

Heading for Norfolk, Virginia, 61 cadets, Ms. West, Mr. Thompson, Chief Stewart and Col. Krippner boarded a C118 aircraft in October. For four days the group visited ships while President Nixon put the United States on military alert.

Individually bringing the ROTC program into the limelight, Kris Beutel and Rod Lines captured one honor after another.

Kris received a full tuition scholarship for the NROTC program as well as an appointment by Congressman Ed Roush to Annapolis Naval Academy.

Rod cruised the Atlantic and Mediterranean in September with 17 other cadets representing nine states. He also received a full scholarship for the Navy-Marine NROTC program.

Dissection offers unique experience, emotional chaos

New Haven High School offers a wide array of subjects in the science field. Courses of the past year included three progressive chemistry classes, biology, physics, botany, ecology, earth science, physical science, life science, man-made world and zoology.

There was enough science to keep even young aspiring Einsteins happy, and biology was the most prominent. The course surveyed most aspects of science, but highlight of the year was the art of dissection. This feat was used on frogs, grasshoppers, crayfish, starfish and other aquatic specimens.

During these ordeals of opening these creatures, student reaction ranged from excitement to screaming and fainting.

Mr. Jerry Fickle and son

Mr. Jerry Fickle taught Life Science and Earth Science. He received his bachelors degree and masters degree from Indiana State University, and sponsored Ecology Club. Mr. Fickle is a reading and traveling enthusiast, and served as president of EAEA at the beginning of the year.

Mr. Stanley Hostetler taught Biology. He received his B.S. in physical education from Purdue University and M.S. from St. Francis College. He was head coach of wrestling, assistant football coach and sponsored FCA and the Senior Class. Mr. Hostetler enjoys most sports, especially hunting and fishing and ones he coaches, and likes gardening.

Mr. Arthur Wilder taught Basic Chemistry, Academic Chemistry and Physical Science. He obtained his bachelors degree in chemistry and math and obtained his masters in chemistry. He has taken classes at Purdue, Ball State, Indiana, Miami and Indiana Tech in addition to his graduate work.

Science, Ecology clubs combine

Because of a lack of attendance at meetings for the individual groups, Science Club and Ecology Club joined forces in November.

Included in the organization's activities were a field trip to southern Indiana to investigate some caves and a canoe and camping excursion to Mongo.

Included in the club's membership were seniors Mike Pelletier and Larry Wiedman, both of whom won impressive honors.

For the second straight year, Pelletier was named Best Boy Scientist in Indiana by the Indiana Junior Academy of Science, and he had many other top awards.

Wiedman won first place at the International Science Fair at Notre Dame. He was awarded with a six-week study grant to the University of Rhode Island and an invitation to take his project to the Japanese Student Science Fair in Tokyo.

Applications of carpentry, metal work and drafting processes constituted the Industrial Art Department's major aims. Correct use of tools and materials was taught in metals class, enabling each student to design his own project.

Working in mechanical drawing classes, students were taught how to transmit objects into smaller scale drawings.

Home Economics helped prepare interested students to sew everyday problems. Boys learned to cook and family living classes studied babies, prepared for marriage and planned weddings.

Home Nursing and Human Development attracted students wishing to understand and cope with first-aid, marital relationships, and child development.

Learning to organize and equip a house, Home Management classes were required to design their own homes.

Youth Hostels on 'natural high'

American Youth Hostels is an international organization dedicated to inducing the 'natural high' through fresh air and exercise in natural environments. Hosteling is traveling under one's own steam—bicycling, hiking, canoeing, skiing and sailing, and when necessary staying at youth hostels—inexpensive overnight accommodations with responsible adult supervision.

The local AYH chapter has emphasized bicycling but there has been an occasional ski trip.

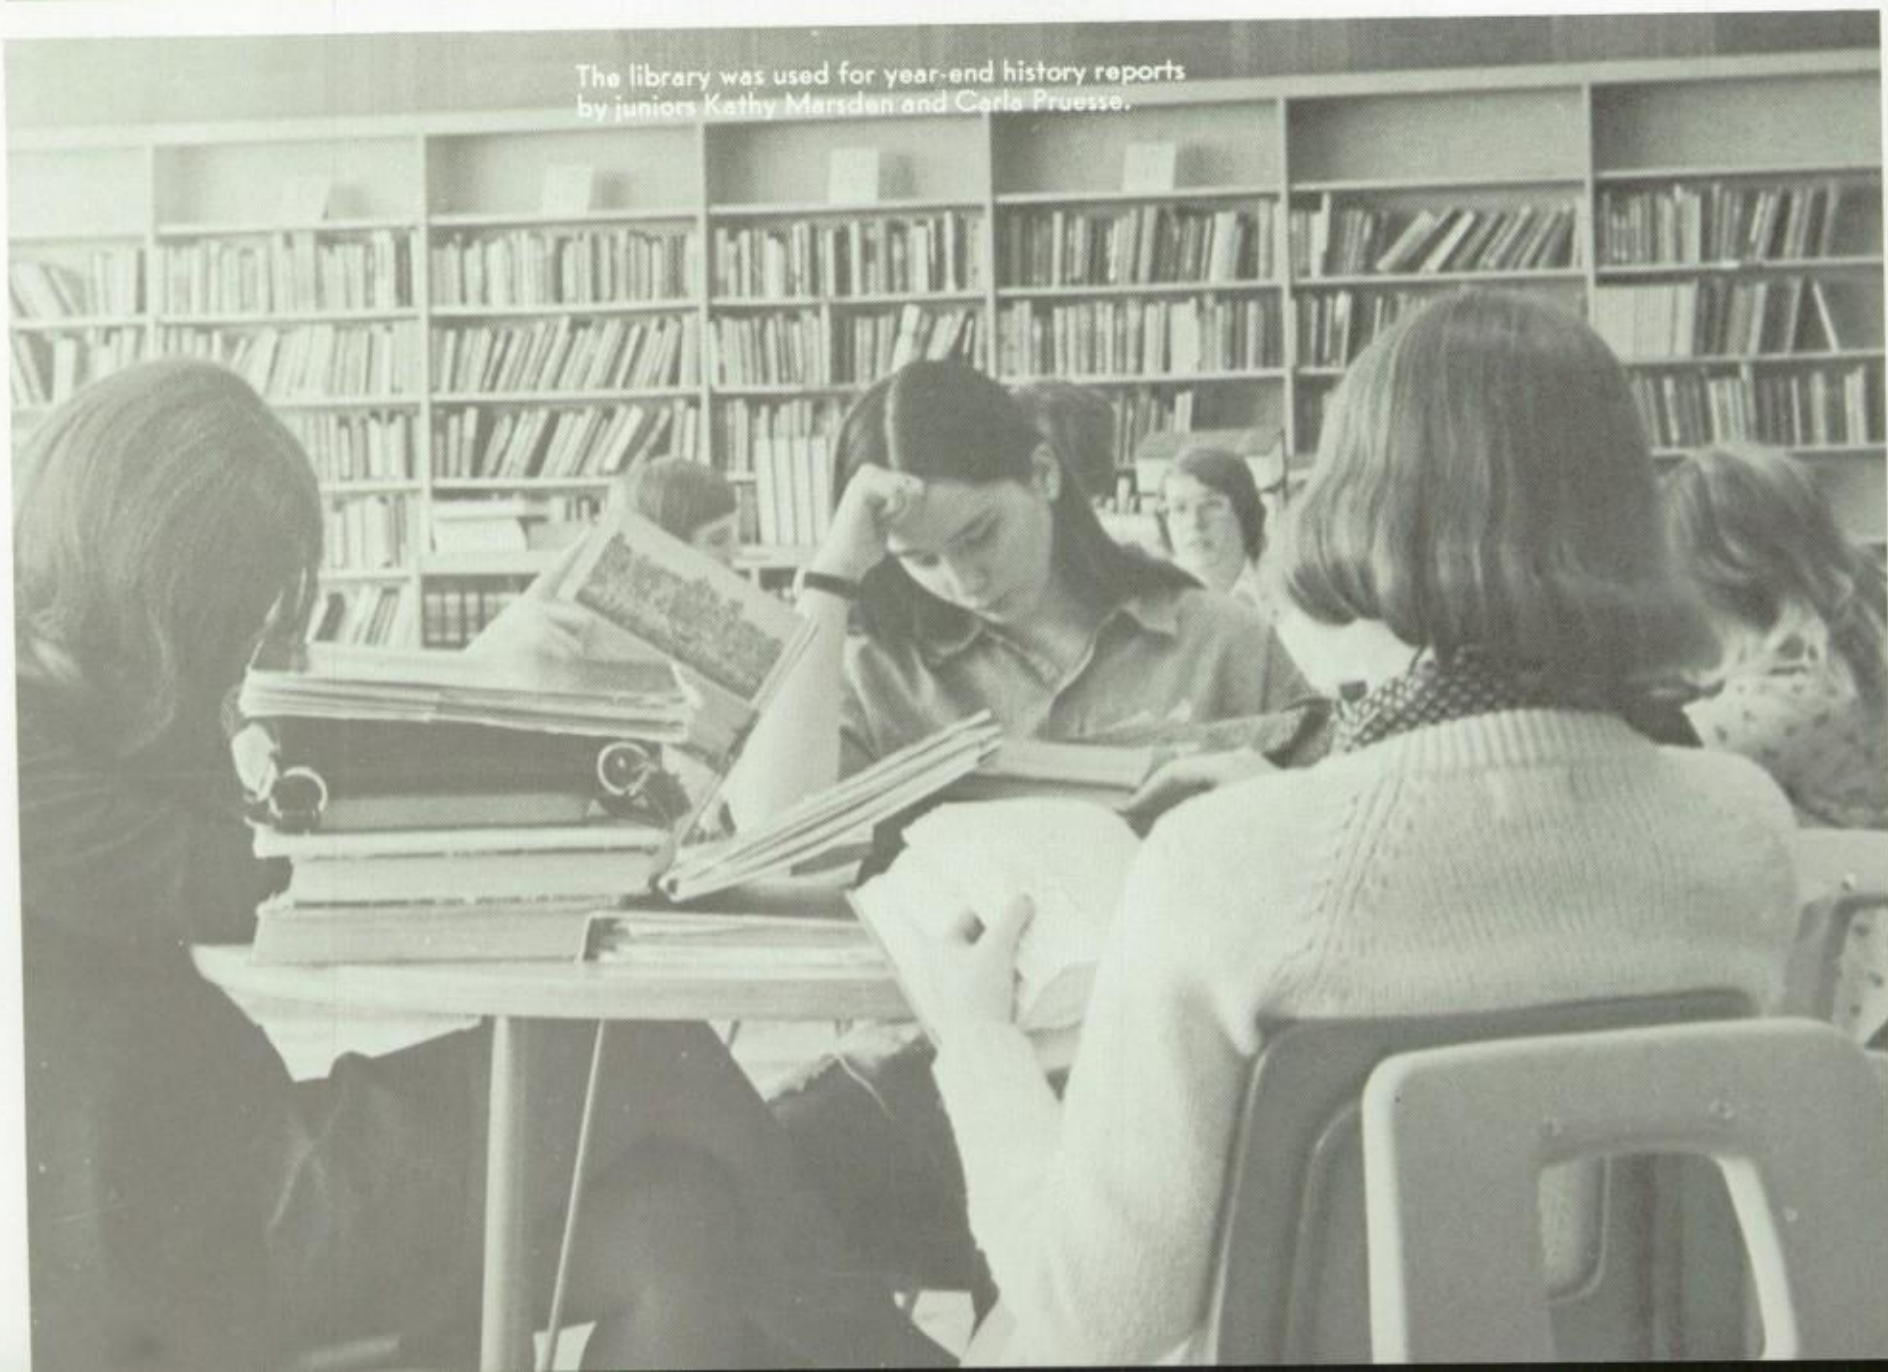
Sociology takes trip, learns court proceedings

Social Studies classes conducted a variety of events. One of the interesting things was Mr. Monoghan's sociology class. The class took a field trip to the City-County Building, and visited the courts.

They conducted open discussions on such current topics as abortion and related subjects. Among the requirements were yearend projects such as slide-sound essays.



The library was used for year-end history reports by juniors Kathy Marsden and Carla Pruesse.

Charlie Stratton makes use of library facilities for their school projects.

Did you know that all of our Presidents have at one time in their lives visited a library? This only proves one thing—ignorance can't be lost in a library. If that's true Ms. Beaman would have 1224 future Presidents on her hands.

The library had many problems this year with collecting overdue book fines. Students were threatened with everything except testifying in front of the Watergate committee in order to pay their fines.

Another pitfall was the number of students who went down to the IMC to talk and have a good time instead of working. They were confronted with cries of "Quiet" from head librarian Ms. LuAnn Beaman. Mr. Robert Reynolds ordered films and kept track of projector locations.

Future Nurses plan for careers

Future Nurses Club devoted the year to learning nursing careers. Providing information in the various fields helped students decide on their proposed careers.

During the year they tried to cover different occupations for nurses. Included in this were Navy nurses and school nurses.

Also included in the years activities was a tour of all three area hospitals' schools of nursing.

In October, the Homecoming float "Knock 'em dead Bulldogs" was rewarded a second place ribbon. The only fund raising projects were a ring sale and newspaper drive.

Chess club spends time practicing

Students participated in the bowling league at Hillcrest Bowl. Throughout the course of the year many gutter balls and strikes were thrown but regardless of scores, everyone had a good time. The best bowlers and teams were presented trophies during the annual banquet at the end of the year. Sponsors for the bowling league were Mr. Isch and Mr. Ritchie.

Chess Club activities included attending the annual state high school chess meet and competing with other area high schools.

The name of the game was "many hours of time and practice." Mr. Norman Stephan added his wit and intelligence as he served as sponsor of the group.

Cheerleaders add spunk to team

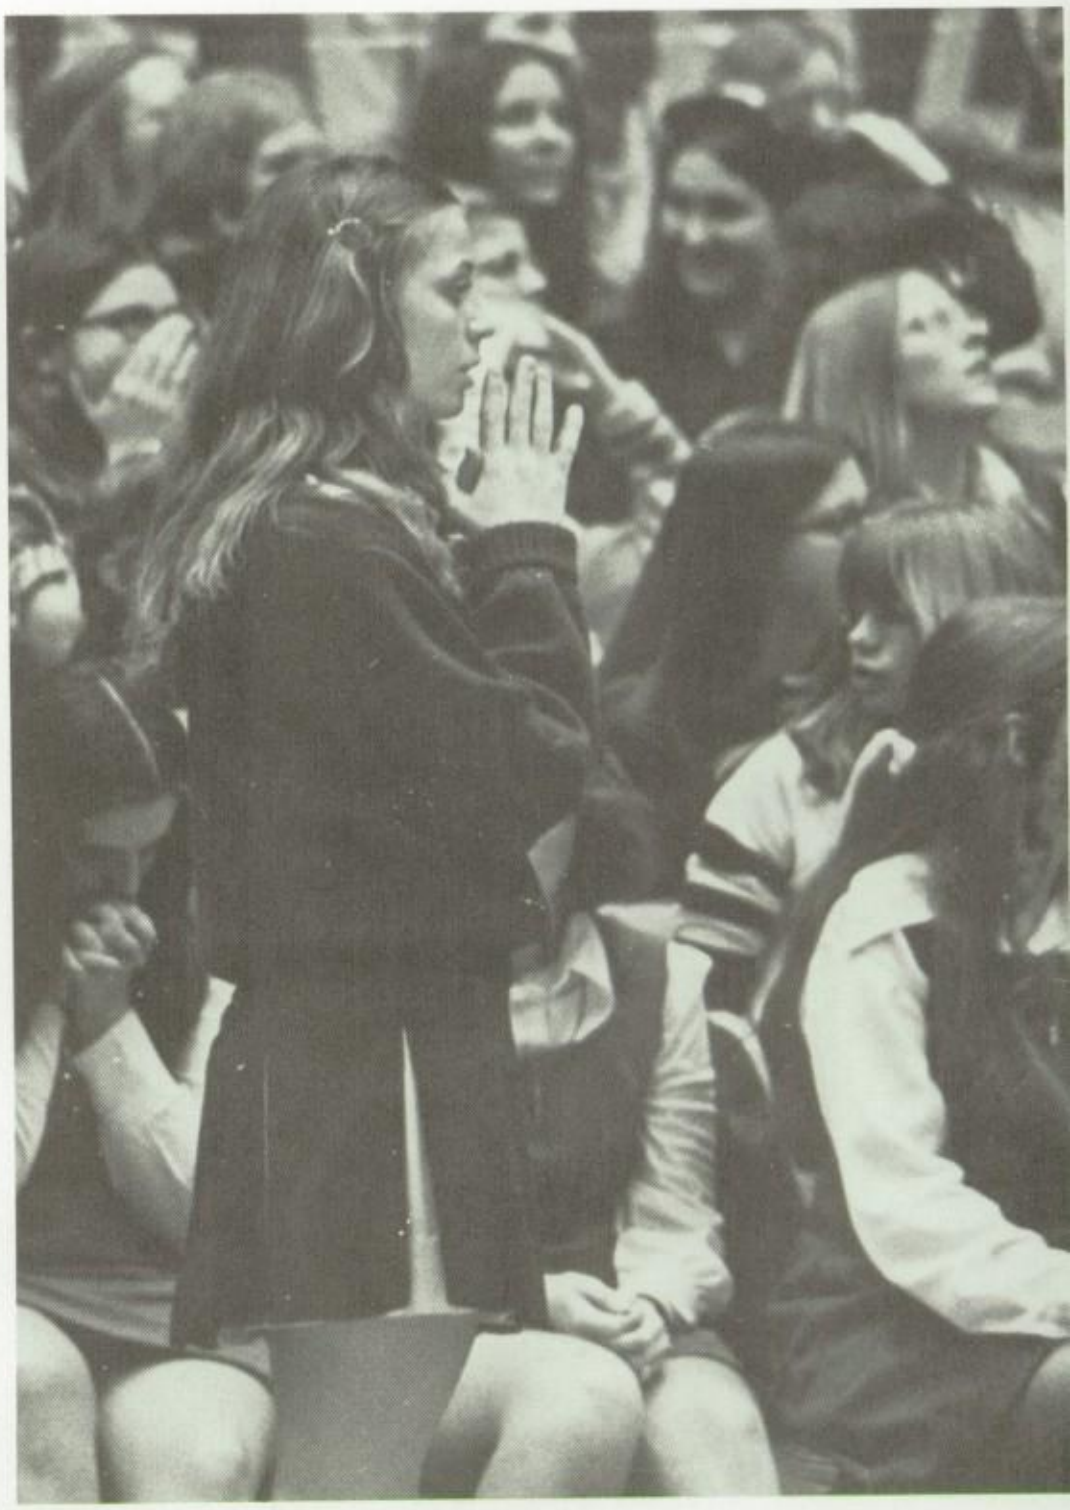
We want a victory! We're from New Haven, couldn't be any prouder, and if you don't believe us, we'll yell a little louder!

Such were the sounds heard at athletic events, as the cheerleading corps tried to inspire their team on to bigger and better things.

Leading the yells for the varsity were seniors Jo Peterson, Patty Bell, Deb Parnin, Karen Shaffer and Tami Beatty.

Junior Varsity cheerleaders were juniors Sue Short and Deb Polley, and sophomores Corinne Lampe, Cheri Maroney, and Tammy Oehler.

These girls braved the cold and wet of the football season and the warmness of the gymnasium during the basketball campaign, but, through it all, performed their duty of leading their team to victory.



Varsity cheerleader Patty Bell anxiously awaits the outcome of the sectional game.

Boys Boosters confronted with dilemma of censorship

Boys Boosters began the year by having a party at Randy Grabach's house. The club discussed the year's plans and played football. The group was very large at the beginning of the year but grew steadily smaller as the administration cracked down on censorship of the cheers when a complaint arose in the Concordia game. But many boys continued to show up for the football and basketball games, both home and away. President of the club was Bob Schultz and treasurer was Jim Want. Led by Mr. Charles Henke, the group developed a theme song called "We are the Bulldogs of New Haven" which went to the tune of the Budweiser song. Sponsor was Mr. Bill Parman.

Fellowship of Christian athletes was sponsored by Mr. Pat Monaghan and Mr. Everett Cass. The group met bi-weekly in different members homes to discuss growth in Christian life and how one can better himself through belief in Christ.

The group continued to finance publication of the basketball programs. President of FCA was Terry Hudson.

Congress wisely sponsors stop-light petition

Overcoming its budgetary problems, Student Congress sponsored several dances, including the Homecoming affair. Other fund-raising projects included sale of items for the Sectional and slave days.

To avoid auto accidents, the group petitioned to have a stop light installed at Highway 30 and Werling Road after a casualty during the past year at that intersection.

Honor Society recognizes 51 top scholars

Fifty-one seniors were awarded for their scholastic accomplishments by being initiated into the New Haven Honor Society.

Sponsored by Mrs. Virginia West, the organization had its annual banquet on May 2 in the high school cafeteria. Members were given certificates and the parents were recognized.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Dr. Dean Ulmer, Associate Dean at the I.U. regional campus, who addressed the gathering on the "advantages of today's younger generation."

Sportsmanship Council raffles television set

Under the sponsorship of Mr. Robert Wolfe, Sportsmanship Council sought to generate school spirit by performing skits during pep sessions and encouraging student participation.

The majority of the club's fund-raising was vested in a single raffle-ticket sale. Senior Kim Ammerman got the lucky ticket, as he won a black and white television set, courtesy of Going's T.V.

My high school days go much faster when spent with friends

One person alone, 1250 people together. A contingency of unique personalities striving towards their individual goals, while discovering each other.

Whatever else has occured during the past year, the friendships that have been made will be treasured far beyond our secondary education.

As F. Pearl said:

I do my thing,
and you do
your thing.
I am not in this world to live up to your expectations and you are not in this world to live up to mine.
You are you
and I am I,
and if by chance we find each other,
it's beautiful.

Girls share highest academic honors

Running neck-to-neck in the race for top scholastic average for four years, Renee Hauke and Chris Menzie finished so closely that a tie was finally called. As the result of their endeavors, the girls were named co-valedictorians of the Class of '74.

Renee announced plans to study physical education and psychology at Purdue in Fort Wayne. She was active in Honor Society, GAA and French Club.

Chris declared plans to attend Purdue in Fort Wayne and learn data processing. She was French Club president and a member of Honor Society.

Named as salutatorian, Sandy (Hagy) Huff returned from her home in Michigan for her graduation ceremonies. Sandy married and moved after first semester.

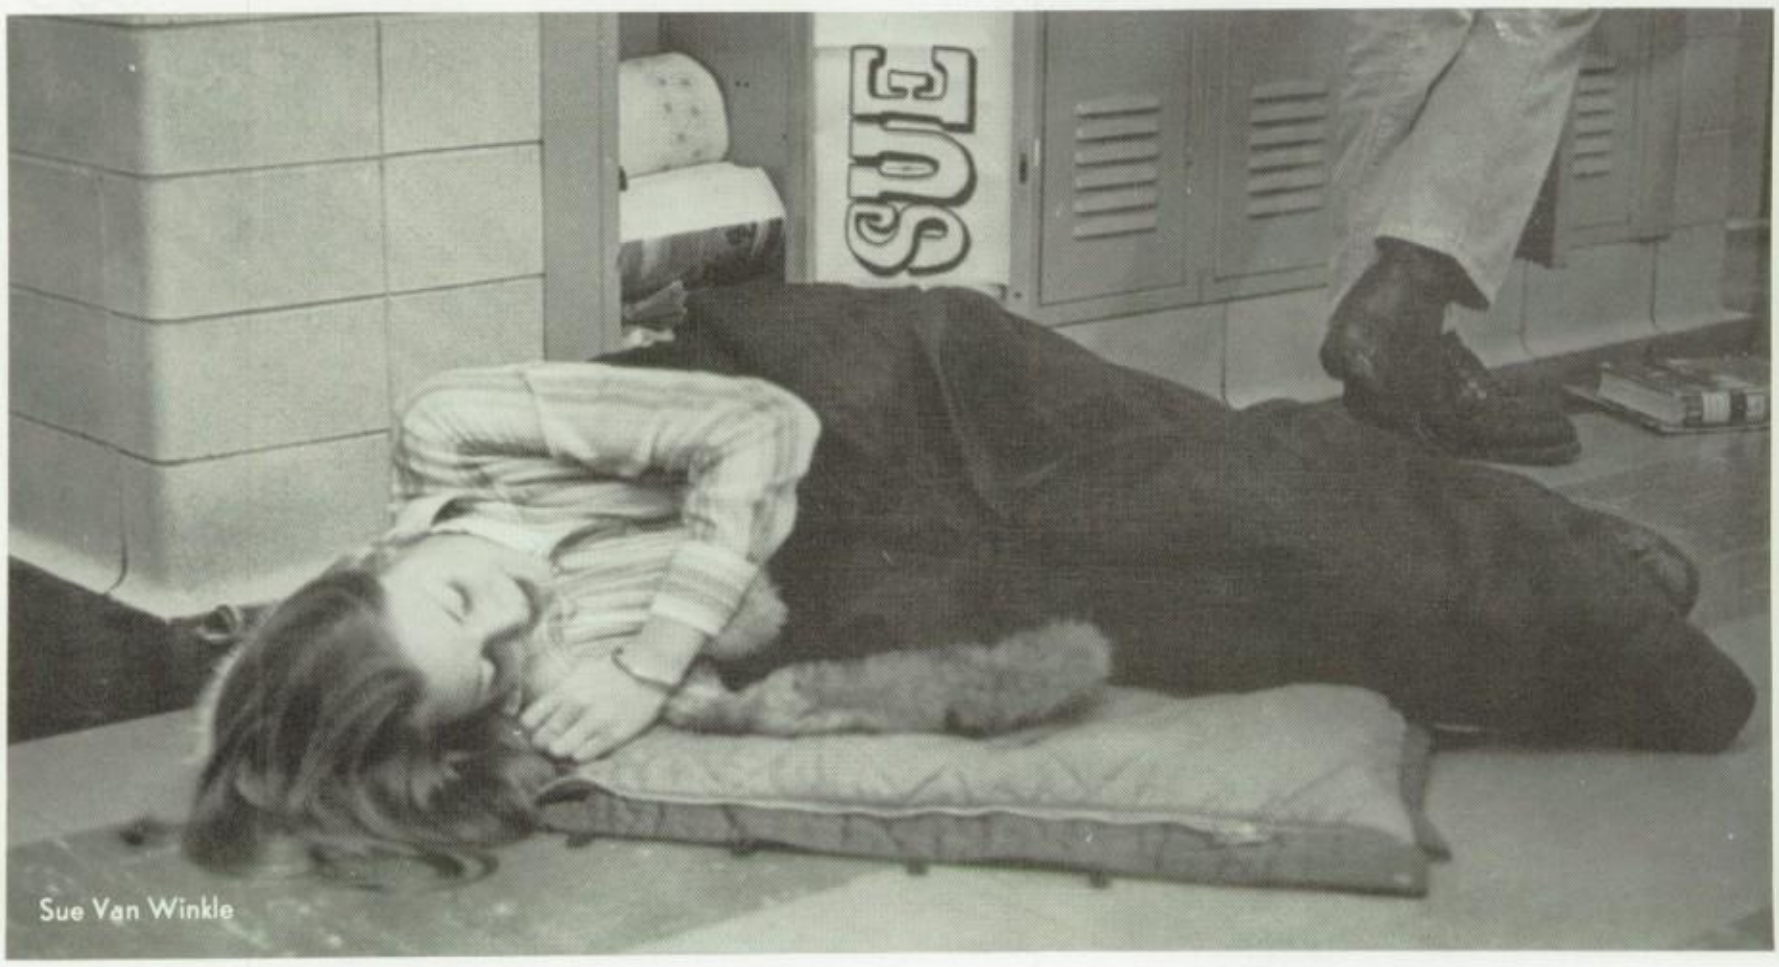
Students' days seem neverending

3:20—And yet another day has come to a conclusion. I leave the hassles of school behind me and make my way homeward.

But the day has just begun. An athletic event to go to, a job to secure my financial status, homework to be completed. Although Phase '74 is ending a student's day is never done.

Tom Bennett



Sue Van Winkle

Sometime that night-drowsiness begins to rule my destiny, and I hastily prepare myself for a tranquil night of slumberhood.

As I climb back into the warmth and comfortability of bed, I realize that another day of my life has passed by without too much notice on my part.

Is this all there is to life? Tomorrow maybe I'll have a chance to find out.

. . . and in the last days, we endured

Nine months of working together—acquiring necessary photographs, trying to compose imaginative copy, while attempting to catch up with deadlines—resulted in what you have just finished. An inexperienced staff was a hindrance, but everyone produced when it counted.

The people listed below were more than a catalogue of names to me. Their dedication, their hard work, their ability to work under pressure, and even their good humor were all vital elements to the composition of this book. Mere words cannot express my gratitude to them.

Thanks also go to Kevin Key for the use of his pictures of the three-act play, to Larry Pensinger for all photos on pages 52-57, to Mr. Dick Kennard, our NEWSFOTO representative, and, as always, to Mr. Tom Walker for all class, faculty, and club photos. A special thanks to Bob Morris for his fantastic cover design.

Finally, I would like to recognize the student body. A yearbook is only as good as the story it tells, and it's a story about people. To my fellow graduates, best wishes for a happy and successful future. To underclassmen fortunate enough to be back for another go at it, good luck and remember, as I do, that high school is the best part of your life.

Terri-
If there was ever
one word to describe you, it would have to be spunk! You have more spunk
and spirit than any other person
I know. And now that is our senior year and life's a drag, we will need
you to sparkle things up. I also think you care so much for other people's feelings and that makes you try so hard to make them happy. I will really miss you
when school's out,
your smile and advice but I really hope you have a good life.

Love,

Sally

Dear Jeri -
You are one of my best friends and I have had so many super fun times with you. Remember all our group missions and that one 3 of us had that special never to forget any of them! You always that o'd beer through so much day with you smile and ha! we'd never forget any of these things would with out you more of these up lots but I enjoyed my so really miss you to come as fun. o many more good times when o coming and making that brightened laughter. Love up - have been half as Paula (alias N.N.N.S.) know we will have (sharey partner!) back. Thanks so very much! such fun and full of happ

P.S. (never forgot that night).

Terri,
We've been good friends for a long time. I just hope that we graduate
that won't hurt
our friendship. Good luck in the future.
Love,

P.S.

Terri,
What do you say to a person you've shared so much with? Happy times and some sad ones. Of course that's life. You're a person who wants to live life to its fullest and I'm sure you will. Good luck in college & the rest of your life. I hope we don't lose contact with each other after graduation. Thanks for helping make these years really great!

YEARBOOKS

Terri,
Ya a super cute and fun-loving gal. I think you would have made a good class president, you could add some fun to this dull school. (Do it anyway) Stay the same and Good Luck Always.

Love,
Mel

Terri,
Ya one of the most cheerful person I've ever met, you always have been & probly always will. We'd gotta make this year our best and put some life into this dump! Married Life should turn out to be really something! Well, good luck in everything you do & God Bless Ya!

Terri
I almost forgot your name because you never talk to me like first year, but I guess being a Senior (Just Kidding) will do that to ya. I hope maybe the year goes on we can get along as good as last year. Good luck in your last year of school and try to talk to me some if it's not a bother.
